Violence on these streets left one dead Tuesday

Mob wrath strikes streets of Miami

By ROBERT MCCLURE
United Press International

MIAMI — Hundreds of blacks enraged over the shooting of a black youth by police poured into the streets of downtown Miami Tuesday night, firing guns, hurling firebombs and setting cars ablaze. Hospital officials said one man was killed and seven others were injured in the rioting. A doctor said the youth whose shooting touched off the rioting was still alive after undergoing surgery for a bullet wound to the head. However, reports circulated through the streets that the youth had died. Officers investigating the shooting that triggered the violence had to be rescued from angry crowds, looting was reported and there were reports that officers were fired upon with their own weapons.

Several hours after the violence began in the Overtown section on the north edge of downtown Miami riot-garbed police began firing teargas canisters into the crowds — estimated by one black leader to include as many as 600 people — and at 7:45 p.m. MST police said the situation was calming. An officer manning a outpost at the perimeter of the area said at 8 p.m., "There's nothing happening now."

At Jackson Memorial Hospital, Dr. Dennis Doug said nine persons, including the youth whose shooting triggered the incident, had been rushed to the hospital. He said the youth, identified as Nevill "The Snake" Johnson Jr., was still alive following surgery, but would not divulge his condition. One man, he said, was dead of a gunshot wound in the chest. Three others suffered gunshot wounds, and four more — including a policeman — had various other injuries.

He would not give the names, but hospital spokeswoman Betty Baderman identified the dead man as Anthony McKenzie, 23. She would not reveal his race.

David L. Perkins, a leader of the Culmer-Overtown Community Advisory Committee, said five police cars were burned and estimated 600 blacks were in the streets.

Decision on wilderness struck hard in Magic Valley

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two-thirds of the land in Idaho that was dropped from consideration for federal wilderness protection is in the Magic Valley.

As part of a 2 million-acre decision Monday that was attacked by conservation groups across the country, the U.S. Department of Interior withdrew 22,000 acres in Idaho from further consideration for wilderness protection. About 15,000 acres of that total is in the Magic Valley.

The Bureau of Land Management land was withdrawn because the 10 tracts, four of which are in the Magic Valley, are smaller than the 5,000-acre minimum for wilderness areas set by the bureau.

The Interior Department ruling thus reverses a recommendation made a little more than a month ago by local BLM officials that the 4,385-acre Little Wood River study area east of Halley be given wilderness status.

It also adds another twist to the case of Lower Salmon Falls Creek. Despite its 3,500-acre size, local BLM officials received special clearance to consider the popular recreation area between Salmon Falls Dam and Balanced Rock State Park near Castleford for wilderness status. Yet the tract was one of those eliminated for further consideration Monday on the grounds that it was too small.

Other Magic Valley tracts withdrawn from the wilderness study program were the Borah Peak study area, a 3,100-acre tract in Blaine County; and the Black Butte study area, a 4,002-acre tract of volcanic rock in Lincoln and Blaine counties.

Several tracts of less than 1,000 acres in eastern Idaho, and two tracts in Custer County that together contained about 5,000 acres, also were withdrawn from the wilderness study program.

In addition to the 22,000 acres in Idaho withdrawn from wilderness consideration, and 320,000 acres throughout nine other Western states, from 500,000 to 1.5 million acres could be deleted from the study program through other clauses of the Interior Department's decision.

No inventory of land that would be affected by the other aspects of the decision was available. Tuesday, Two BLM spokesmen said that Idaho appears to have no land falling into these categories. However, thus the 22,000 acres could be the total land in Idaho that is affected by Monday's decision.

In studies during the past several years, BLM officials have designated 1.7 million acres of land in Idaho for wilderness-status studies. To date, the BLM has recommended that Congress give wilderness status to about 300,000 acres. BLM officials recommended that 230,000 acres not receive the special protection.

With the Interior Department action apparently removing another 22,000 acres from consideration, slightly more than 1 million acres still is under study by the BLM in Idaho.

Secretary draws heavy flak from environmentalists

By ELMER W. LAMMI
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary James Watt came under heavy fire by environmentalists Tuesday for moving to drop 805,000 acres and possibly as many as 2.5 million acres of western lands from consideration for preservation as wilderness.

Environmental groups responded with angry denunciations of the plan published Monday in the Federal Register without other public announcement.

The Interior Department said it is withdrawing 150 areas of less than 5,000 acres each but totaling 340,526 acres in 10 western states from further study for possible designation as wilderness.

The department said it also is withdrawing another 106 study areas totaling 464,976 acres of government lands in which subsurface mineral rights are held by states or private interests.

The lands are located in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

A department spokesman said officials also would review about 70 areas totaling about 1.7 million acres of lands that might not meet wilderness standards if they were not adjacent to areas that do meet the standards but are managed by other federal agencies.

Environmentalists charged that the action flies in the face of congressional policy laid out in a $7.4 billion money bill for the Interior Department and related agencies passed by the lame-duck Congress just before adjourning.

The legislation extended a ban on oil leasing off the northern coast of California and also prohibits drilling in wilderness areas and lands under study for designation as wilderness. As approved, however, the ban would not bar drilling by companies with "valid existing rights" to do so.

In line with that exception, the department also said it was granting a permit to the Yates Petroleum Company to drill in the Salt Creek Wilderness on the Bitter Lake National Wildlife Refuge in New Mexico. The state owns the mineral rights in the area and had granted the firm the right to drill over the objections of environmentalists who staged angry protests at the site.

In Washington, Charles Clusen of The Wilderness Society called the decision a "snook attack" by Watt and an example of what he said was the secretary's "rape and run" public land management policies.

"But its more serious this time," Clusen said. "Congress just less than a week ago sent a message to Watt not to invade the wilderness area with oil derricks."

Wyoming Sierra Club president Phil Hocker said the action was "very dismaying but ... not surprising," and called on President Reagan to "replace this very dangerous man very quickly."

Blizzard blasts its way across Midwest

By LESLIE GRIFFIN
United Press International

The Midwest's first blizzard of the season paralyzed traffic from Nebraska to northern Wisconsin with up to 2 feet of snow Tuesday and trapped thousands in their homes, many without electricity.

East of the storm, record high temperatures were reported from Chicago to New York.

A cold front ended three days of heavy rains in eastern Texas and Louisiana, but more than 500 Louisiana residents remained homeless because of floods caused by up to 20 inches of rain.

Rain fell across the Ohio Valley and from Alabama through the Appalachians, prompting a flash flood watch for eastern Tennessee.

Parts of northern- and central California were fogged in, with visibility at Montague near zero early in the day.

At least 33 deaths nationwide have been blamed on the weather since the Christmas Eve blizzard that buried Denver.

Winds whipping from 40 to 80 mph piled up enormous drifts from Kansas to Wisconsin and blew snow back onto highways as fast as plows could clear them.

Travelers across Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Colorado and South Dakota were stranded at truck stops and airports as winds whipped snow to zero visibility and drifted four-foot "walls of snow."

High winds piled 6-foot drifts across highways in northern Wisconsin, including Interstate 94 just east of the Twin Cities. The state patrol reported many trucks jackknifed on highways, and many cars in the ditch.

The Kansas highway patrol reopened Interstate 70 Tuesday afternoon as winds died down and plows could clear roads, releasing a flood of cars, buses and trucks carrying skiers to Colorado. Among them was Kansas Gov. John Carlin and his family, who were marooned in Colby.

Southeastern South Dakota and southern Minnesota slowly dug their way out from 17 inches of snow which closed highways, airports and businesses, and caused some panels of the Metrodome at Minneapolis to sag. A year ago, before the Metrodome officially opened, the air-supported fabric roof collapsed under the weight of snow.

A Kansas woman died when her car skidded broadly into a pickup truck. In Texas, an Arizona woman and her granddaughter died when their car went out of control on an icy Panhandle highway and struck an oncoming car head-on.

Two doctors in Minnesota fought their way through the blizzard single-handedly to deliver babies. One doctor hiked 3 miles through a foot of snow to deliver three babies at a St. Paul hospital, one of them by Caesarean section. Another skied half a mile to deliver a baby at a snow-bound house.

Record high temperatures recorded east of the storm included Chicago 65, South Bend, Ind. 64, Columbus, Ohio, 63, Louisville, Ky. 66, Pittsburgh 71 and Buffalo, N.Y. 66.

In Chicago, 80-mph wind gusts pitched six steel beams 40 stories from a high rise under construction on Michigan Avenue's "Magnificent Mile" and threatened to topple a huge crane perched atop. Two men were injured by falling boards.

Battleship returns, president greets it

By SAUL FRIDMAN
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

LONG BEACH, Calif. — President Reagan recommissioned the USS New Jersey Tuesday, proclaiming that "America needs the battleship once again to provide the firepower for the defense of freedom."

Standing on the bunting-draped deck of the great gray ship — which served in World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War, and which critics say would be obsolete in a nuclear war — Reagan defended both his $1.6 billion military buildup and the $326 million cost of refitting the New Jersey.

"Freedom to use the seas is our nation's life blood. ... Our Navy is designed to keep the sea lanes open," the president told a friendly audience of workers, Navy personnel and their families who gathered at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard on a bright, warm day.

To critics of big military budgets and of the battleship, he added: "We must not fool ourselves. Providing an adequate defense is not cheap. The price of peace is always high — but considering the alternative, it's worth it."

The Soviet Union's spending to build a large Navy, however, "cannot be justified by any legitimate defense need," Reagan said, because Russia is a land power.

"By contrast, the U.S. is a naval power by necessity, critically dependent on the transoceanic import of vital strategic materials," the president said. "Maritime superiority for us is a necessity."

Using Navy phraseology, he went on: "We must be able in time of emergency to venture in harm's way, controlling air, surface and subsurface areas to assure access to all the oceans of the world."

The recommissioning ceremonies, which included a Navy band and a Marine Honor Guard, contained a reminder of what can result from venturing "in harm's way."

The flag that was unfurled aboard the New Jersey after Reagan spoke was the same banner that flew little more than a year ago over the sunken battleship USS Arizona at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, the anniversary of the 1941 Japanese attack there that sunk or damaged six American battleships.

In his speech, Reagan reiterated his commitment to a 600-ship Navy despite increasing pressures in Congress and within his administration to cut back on planned military spending increases.

The New Jersey or "Big J," as the president called it, will become the 514th ship in the U.S. fleet when it begins service in the Pacific next year.

Navy jet crash kills crewmen

COUPEVILLE, Wash. — Three Navy crewmen died Tuesday when their sophisticated electronic warfare jet crashed in a wooded area south of the Whidbey Island Naval Air Station.

Air Station spokesman Pat Kennedy, however, said she could not confirm reports the crew members were killed on impact after managing to eject from the plane before it went down.

The jet crashed 5 miles south of the air station's auxiliary runway near the town of Coupeville, Wash., about 20 miles south of the air station.

"I've heard those reports, but I really can't say right now," she said. "I just really don't know."

Unconfirmed reports said witnesses at the scene spotted parachutes caught in the trees, indicating the crewmen had ejected before the crash.

Ms. Kennedy said the Navy would launch an investigation into the cause of the accident but information probably would not be available for at least two weeks.

The aircraft, manufactured by the Grumman Corp., reportedly has a history of in-flight accidents.

Tourists die in hotel fire

TAEGU, South Korea (UPI) — A fast-moving fire raced through a tourist hotel Wednesday in South Korea's third largest city, killing at least 10 people and injuring 15 others, police said.

Initial reports had put the death toll at 11 but could not be confirmed.

The fire killed an entire Korean family of five and a Japanese tourist were among the dead. There were no immediate reports of Americans staying at the 70-room hotel.

Several guests were trapped for a time on the hotel roof by flames and thick smoke, but eventually made their way down safely, witnesses said.

Police said the blaze broke out about 7:10 a.m. local time Wednesday (3:10 p.m., MST) Tuesday in a second-floor room of the six-story Kumho Hotel in Taegu, 150 miles southeast of Seoul, and rapidly spread.

At the time of the fire, 33 guests were staying at the hotel, including nine Japanese and one Chinese, police said.

Man prefers prison to hospital

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A Salt Lake City man says he wants to go to prison for abducting his week-old daughter to Canada rather than be sentenced to the Utah State Hospital.

Kelly Phillip Stark, 27, was arraigned Tuesday before Fifth Circuit Court Judge Raymond Uno on charges he kidnapped his daughter from the West Jordan, Utah, home of his estranged wife Dec. 9 and drove the infant to Calgary, Canada.

Stark, who has refused to hire a defense attorney, told Uno he wanted to waive his constitutional right to a preliminary hearing. Stark said, "It would be cheaper to send me to prison than to put me in a mental institution."

The father is also charged with custodial interference and with assault. Prosecutors urged the judge to appoint an attorney for Stark and to schedule a pre-trial hearing, saying the suspect apparently did not understand his legal rights.

But, Uno said he felt Stark was aware of the consequences of his decision and the judge ordered the suspect bound over to Third District Court to stand trial.

Husband hit with herpes suit

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The wife of a bank president has filed a $6 million lawsuit in federal court, saying her husband caused her "permanent and progressive injury" by giving her herpes.

In the suit filed Monday, Joanne N. St. Clair asked for $1 million in actual damages and $5 million in punitive damages from J. Wesley St. Clair, 46, who is the chairman and president of the Southgate Bank & Trust Co.

The four-count suit said that St. Clair "willfully, wantonly, maliciously, and with callous disregard for the rights of others, purposely subjected (Mrs. St. Clair) to herpes."

In addition, the suit says that when the couple married in 1979 St. Clair did not tell Mrs. St. Clair "or warn her that he had herpes until sores broke out on his hands. The failure to warn brought permanent and progressive injury."

Rebels strike near capital

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Guerrillas Tuesday staged raids around the capital and unsuccessfully tried to blow up a key bridge in eastern El Salvador, an attack that left one woman dead and six soldiers wounded, officials said.

The guerrillas' clandestine Radio Venceremos claimed rebel forces have captured 287 prisoners of war during the past seven weeks, the latest seized last week when insurgents overran the northern town of La Palma.

Red Cross officials have confirmed the guerrillas released dozens of prisoners to the international agency since the beginning of the rebels' Oct. 10 offensive.

Urban guerrillas Tuesday bombed a public bus and four trucks in San Salvador in bold daytime attacks and later strafed a security outpost about 100 yards from the national police headquarters, officials said.

Wilderness

Pat Ford, the executive director of the Idaho Conservation League, echoed other conservation-group leaders by criticizing Interior Secretary James Watt for the decision. All wilderness study areas are under the control of Congress. They can neither be dropped from consideration, nor declared wilderness, without approval by Congress, Ford said.

Watt's decision Monday says that the lands never should have been named wilderness study areas, and that Congress therefore has no control over the land, the ICL director said. "That's a circumvention of the spirit, if not the letter, of the law."

Among the lands in Idaho covered by Monday's withdrawal decision is the 1,900-acre Boulder Creek study area in Custer County. The Idaho Conservation League has proposed including that tract in a Boulder-White Clouds wilderness area, Ford said, which would provide additional protection to the scenic values of the White Clouds portion of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

The other categories of land removed from the wilderness study program Monday are lands where the federal government does not own mineral rights below the tract, or tracts that would not qualify for wilderness protection on their own.

Cases where the federal government does not own the mineral rights below the land are called "split-estates." It means, according to Mark Guldry, a BLM spokesman in Washington, that "Somebody else has absolute right to the minerals, so there is no practical way we can add it to the wilderness area."

No land in Idaho falls into this category, he said.

In the other case where lands are being eliminated from the wilderness study program, the lands are being considered for wilderness in partnership with adjacent land managed by a different federal agency. Some of those tracts do not meet wilderness criteria on their own, but might in combination with the additional tracts.

Conservationists say more than a million acres might be eliminated from the study program through that part of Watt's ruling.

A BLM spokesman in Boise said that all Idaho lands managed by the bureau that are being considered for wilderness status meet the criteria for the protection. He had yet to see the official Interior Department ruling to check, but he believed no land in Idaho would fall into that category.

Mob

"They were throwing rocks and bottles and shooting at white people," he said. Young blacks were seen breaking into a gas station and a gun shop at Northwest Fourth and New River. Whites caught in the area were huddled in buildings, calling police to get them out.

Police cordoned off a 10-square block area of the predominantly black section of Overton on the north edge of the downtown district, about 2 miles south of the Liberty City area where race riots in 1968 left 18 people dead.

Shortly after 9 p.m. one witness, Max Trullence, 20, said he saw about 20 police cars go into the area with at least four officers in each car. Shortly thereafter, looters began to permeate the streets.

Police spokesman Jack Sullivan said there were reports officers had been fired upon — apparently with their own weapons in some instances. He would not estimate how many people had taken to the streets but reporters said it appeared to be in the hundreds.

There were reports rioters seized at least two unmarked police cars, grabbed the weapons inside and began shooting.

As the violence persisted, the crowds broke into smaller bands and began to set trash containers afire. At least three cars and a truck were burning on the streets.

The violence began east of Interstate 95, an elevated freeway running through the city, and soon spread to west of it.

Sullivan said the trouble began when two police officers went into an arcade at 2nd Avenue and 15th Street about 5 p.m. to investigate a report of a man with a gun.

"As they entered, they saw the man with a gun in his pocket. He made a movement toward his gun and was was hazy with smoke.

Someone yelled: "You're going the wrong way."

A group of 10 youths ran in front the car. Several rocks hit the car's windshield as Miss Speck turned north on 2nd Avenue.

Police a few blocks away refused to talk to Miss Speck.

"I suggest you get out of here," one said.

Jim Dimitriou, 36, said he, his wife, Alicia, and son Mike, 10, were driving through the Overton section "when two or three hundred people swarmed into the street and began throwing rocks and bottles."

Missiles went through the open window of his car, striking both Dimitriou and his wife on the head.

shot once in the head," Sullivan said.

When two homicide investigators arrived later, the crowd "took exception" and held them in the arcade, he said. He said more officers rushed in to free the investigators.

"The people in the area didn't like it," Sullivan said. "They started throwing bottles and rocks."

The black youth, reportedly identified as Nevill "The Snake" Johnson, was wounded, Sullivan said. But reports persisted that he was dead — and that it was a policeman who shot him.

United Press International correspondent Mary Speck, driving on 14th Street near NW 3rd, was confronted by a crowd of about 50 young blacks milling around in the street. The air

Lewis leaves Cabinet, joins business

By ROBERT GEARTY
New York Daily News

WASHINGTON — Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis, regarded as one of the ablest members of the Reagan Cabinet, Tuesday announced he would resign his post Feb. 1 to return to private business.

Lewis, who two years ago conceived the 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax increase that Congress approved last week, announced that he will become chairman and chief executive officer of Warner Amex Cable Communications Inc., a joint venture of Warner Communications Inc. and American Express Co.

He gained national prominence as President Reagan's point man during the air traffic controllers strike in August 1981. Reagan fired 11,400 controllers. Lewis told reporters Tuesday that the strike and the inability to selectively rehire some of the strikers later marked his largest disappointment as transportation secretary.

Lewis, 51, who had made no secret of his intentions to leave the government after two years, said that now is "an appropriate time for me to resume my primary career direction in the business community."

"He accomplished 95 percent of what he started out to do and he figured that he would quit while he was ahead," said a source close to Lewis, adding that Lewis privately promised the president he would have stayed on as long as necessary.

to pass the gasoline-tax bill. The sources said the only Cabinet job Lewis would have considered was secretary of defense, but "there was no indication that Casper Weinberger would have quit."

White House spokesman said Reagan hoped to name a replacement for Lewis before Feb. 1, but added that the search was just beginning. A leading candidate within the administration was reportedly Elizabeth Dole, assistant to the president for public liaison. The administration would like to have another woman in the Cabinet to counteract Reagan's declining popularity with women voters. The only woman now in the Cabinet is the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Jeane Kirkpatrick. Also named as possible contenders were Bill Brock, U.S. trade representative, and Ray Barnhart, head of the Federal Highway Administration.

Reagan said he accepted the resignation with "great regret."

Lewis became one of Reagan's most trusted advisers during the 1980 campaign. Before that, however, he helped keep Pennsylvania in Gerald R. Ford's column during the 1976 presidential campaign, dashing Reagan's chances of winning the nomination.

Lewis said he would be pleased to help Reagan should he decide to run for re-election in 1984. But he said that did not mean he would "walk away" from his job with Warner Amex, one of the nation's largest cable operators with more than 1.1 million subscribers in 27 states. Cable tv industry financial analysts have said, however, that the enterprise lost almost $20 million in 1981 and will post at least that much of a deficit for 1982.

Resignation doesn't signal shakeup

By LOYE MILLER JR.
Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis is resigning, but, contrary to recurrent rumors, no real shakeup of President Reagan's Cabinet or White House staff is expected.

Washington is always alive with juicy speculation that such-and-such high official will be forced out, setting off a sequence of musical chairs.

And the rumor mill indeed has been cranking away lately. One report had Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger being forced out, triggering a series of moves that would radically transform the face of the White House staff.

But this has been ridiculed by administration insiders who point out that both personally and professionally, the defense secretary is very close to Reagan.

Indeed, Lewis' departure, of which he informed Reagan privately two weeks ago, caught the White House by surprise and creates genuine regret. He has been extremely well-regarded as an effective team player and the most politically astute member of the Cabinet.

From all appearances, Lewis simply felt that he had mastered the task of running the Transportation Department, wanted a change and saw no sign of openings in the few other big jobs (defense secretary, for instance) that might have been a promotion for him. So he is resigning Feb. 1 to take over the chairmanship of financially troubled Warner Amex Cable Communications Inc.

But despite the persistent rumors, other high-level changes seem unlikely at the moment.

"Frankly, I wish there were more prospects for change," said a senior White House official in an interview. "It would be healthy for some people to leave, some to move to other administration jobs and for some new blood to come in. But the top people show no signs of leaving on their own, and it's just not the Gipper's style to go kicking people out."

Reagan earned the nickname "Gipper" by playing star running back George Gipp in the film about fabled Notre Dame coach Knute Rockne. Throughout his career as governor, presidential candidate and president, Reagan has had an extreme distaste for dealing with unpleasant personnel matters, ducking them if at all possible.

He finally buckled down and forced out Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. late last June, but only after he had tolerated more fractious relations with Haig than any other president would have put up with.

More in character, Reagan has taken a head-in-the-sand attitude toward the tension escalating between Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and presidential counselor Edwin P. Meese III, pressures that are severely straining the White House staff machinery.

And so, while some of the men closest to Reagan would like to see such figures as Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan and Interior Secretary James G. Watt sent back to private life, "I just don't see that happening," says a top Reagan aide.

Since taking office, Donovan has been investigated for allegations that while a construction contractor in New Jersey he had improper dealings with organized crime. He was cleared, but a special prosecutor expressed concern that such ties had existed.

In addition, Donovan has been an embarrassment as a poor administrator and a drag for his inability to establish a speaking acquaintance with the labor movement.

Though Reagan personally likes Watt and enjoys his brash style, many others in the White House feel the controversial interior secretary is a lightning rod who cost Republicans many votes in November and could be even more damaging by 1984.

But a seasoned Reagan observer says: "Don't hold your breath... I don't think anybody big is moving any time soon."

Mideast peace talks start slowly

KHALDE, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanese and Israeli negotiators held the first round of historic, U.S.-led discussions on Israeli troop withdrawals and Middle East peace Tuesday but policy differences threatened to "bog down" the talks.

After six hours of discussions — the first direct talks between Lebanon and Israel since a 1949 armistice — the Lebanese, Israeli and U.S. teams issued statements outlining the deliberations.

"The delegations exchanged views on their respective positions," spokesmen for the teams said in Arabic, Hebrew and English. "The agenda was discussed and progress was made. The agenda will be discussed further at the next meeting in Kiryat Shmona (Israel), at 10:30 a.m. Thursday."

After the first round of talks, Lebanese President Amin Gemayel chaired a two-hour meeting attended by the Lebanese negotiators, Prime Minister Cheik Wazzan and Foreign Minister Fille Salem, the National News Agency reported.

A government spokesman said the group agreed to hold "intensive discussions" Wednesday with U.S. officials in an attempt to reach a compromise agenda for the talks.

A Lebanese official quoted in official news reports said he expected the withdrawal talks to be lengthy. Egypt warned Tuesday Lebanon would be rewarding Israel "aggression" — the June 6 invasion of Lebanon — if it accepted Israeli demands.

But the commentary on Radio Cairo also said successful negotiations at Khalde could open the way to peace talks between Israel and other Arab states.

The U.S.-sponsored negotiations began under tight security at the Lebanon Beach Hotel in Khalde, 8 miles south of Beirut, in the shadow of hills guarded by Israeli soldiers, tanks and armored cars. Lebanese soldiers stood guard on rooftops.

Wishing you a Holiday rich in the blessings of friendship, peace and happiness.

Watt ignores spirit, intent of land law

In the past couple of years, we've come to expect some occasional bizarre decisions from Interior Secretary James Watt; but for the life of us, we don't see why he has circumvented the clear intent of Congress and arbitrarily removed thousands of acres of BLM land from consideration for wilderness status.

Do you remember the Sagebrush Rebellion, whose underpinning philosophy was to involve local land managers and users in land use decisions? Do you remember how one of the movement's intent was to supplant Washington's far-away bureaucrats with local people, familiar with local problems.

Funny how, when the shoe is now on Watt's foot, the far-away Washington bureaucrat thinks he should make the decisions for the locals.

In Idaho, the tracts under consideration include an estimated 15,000 acres in the Magic Valley. Several parcels probably would not have been included in any wilderness recommendation anyway because of their small size and proximity to settlements. But local BLM officials had recommended a tract east of Hailey for wilderness consideration less than a month ago.

The intent of Congress was to give local land managers a say in what and how much to include. The procedure calls for local managers, like the BLM's regional offices, to submit recommendations upon which Congress would then act.

Watt's action circumvents that clear intent by declaring tracts to be out of consideration, with no regard for the local manager's recommendations, either pro or con.

Is Watt or his Washington staff, better qualified than local officials, to make those recommendations? We think not.

We agree with the Reagan Administration's approach of taking a close look at wilderness proposals, and of weighing the merits and demerits carefully in each case. But we cannot agree that the approach should circumvent Congress or local officials.

Watt has used this tactic before, most recently this summer when he proposed millions of acres of "excess" federal lands be put on the public block despite some real apprehensions by responsible private and public officials, including Sen. James McClure.

We think Congress, not Watt, should state what the intent of the law is and who has the authority to determine the future wilderness land in America.

Don't cry for us, OPEC

The good news last week was that OPEC met in Vienna to discuss ways of keeping the price of oil, and couldn't arrive at an agreement.

At least I thought it was good news until I talked to an American economist who told me it was bad news.

"Why is it bad news?" I wanted to know.

"Because the OPEC nations and the non-member producing countries will have to sell oil under the table at a much cheaper price."

"But shouldn't that be good news for the rest of the world?" I asked.

"Not necessarily. You see, the OPEC countries borrowed heavily from the Western banks, and if the price of oil falls they will have a hard time honoring their loans. If they don't pay back the money the entire Western monetary system will be in jeopardy."

"Why did the banks loan them so much money if they weren't certain they could pay it back?"

"At the time the banks made the loans, they considered the oil-producing countries blue chip risks because the price was going up and they were sure the cartel would help make sure it remained high."

"So what happened?"

"There was a glut because people couldn't afford the price. So the OPEC countries started double-crossing each other by selling oil under the table at a lower price than they had agreed upon. For example, everybody vowed to sell their oil at $34 a barrel and cut back on production to preserve it. But a lot of countries, up to their ears in debt, were forced to sell it for a lot less."

"Iraq went to war with Iran and needed money to pay for arms."

"Iran had to sell oil at any price it could get to repulse Iraq."

"Nigeria spent more money than it had. And Kadafi of Libya sold his barrels way under price to sock it to Saudi Arabia."

"What a way to run a cartel," I said with disgust.

"The worst of it is that at the very moment OPEC was sticking it to us, the world went into a recession and demand dropped further. So instead of the countries dictating the prices, the free market took over, and with the glut the oil-producing nations found themselves fighting for the same customers."

"So aren't we all better off because OPEC decided to commit fratricide?"

"We would be except all the oil countries are in lock to the Western banks, and if the OPEC members default on their loans the banks could go under."

"Therefore the public has to foot the price of oil to stay up to keep our own banks afloat?"

"That seems to be the case."

"Why should we suffer because a bunch of stupid bankers were making a lot of stupid loans to a lot of stupid countries?"

"It was the only way we could recycle the money the oil countries were charging us for the oil. Until the oil glut the OPEC nations were our best customers."

"Wait a minute. Didn't the OPEC cartel put us in a worldwide recession in the first place?"

"They made a big contribution. But that's no reason to hold a grudge against them."

"That's easy for you to say because you're an economist. But it wouldn't bother me if they had to sell their oil for $3 a barrel again."

"Now you're talking like a selfish consumer. Don't you realize that every time Kuwait sneezes Chase Manhattan gets pneumonia?"

"I don't see that as my problem."

"It's everybody's problem. The eight largest banks in the United States could go down the same hole as the oil-producing countries if the bottom falls out of the petroleum market."

"So I'm supposed to cry for Libya?"

"I'm not asking you to cry for Libya. But you have to feel something for the Morgan Guaranty."

Act on chemicals

I guess by now you have read about the case of Buena Vista-Arden, where the more toxic chemicals, such as Thimet, Systox, Counter, that are considered highly toxic. I don't know all the other chemicals they have stored in the warehouses on Canyon Street in Twin Falls city limits.

I think we are sitting on a keg of dynamite if lightning struck the warehouse, or any big fire started. In the summer time, the odor from the toxic chemical are so bad at times we can't have our friends and family down for summer cookouts and fun for our grandchildren. I, for one, think the highly toxic chemicals should be stored outside of the city limits.

They have zoned us for residential area right next to the warehouses. These warehouses could store other products that wouldn't be hazardous to people's health. The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning says they have no power to solve this problem. Then who can?

Appreciates ballet

I am concerned by the critical tone of The Times-News review of the American Festival Ballet's performance of "The Nutcracker." In the first place, it would be a shame if the students and parents involved were to conclude that their enthusiasm and energy were part of a mediocre experience. It would be an additional misfortune if the sponsors of the American Festival Ballet appearance in Twin Falls were to decide that this group does not deserve their support.

Despite the growing availability of films, video taped, and recorded versions of works for performing artists, live performances will always have an impact and expressive presence that the finest recorded performance cannot provide. Local support for our own (mostly amateur) Magic Valley performers testifies to this.

Given the nature of all performers, it is unusually unfair to suggest that they are not really trying. In such an evaluation, they deserve to have their number (and years) of preparation recognized.

Many of us in the audience would be disappointed if, in the future, this group or similar groups should question whether or not support for their performances is strong enough in the Magic Valley to justify their appearance here. I believe that the students involved should be proud and pleased. This experience should become a bright memory for them. I deeply appreciate the sponsors for their support which enriches the life of our area. I have seen American Festival Ballet a number of times in the past and look forward to seeing them again.

Inefficient human should be named 'Man of the Year'

WASHINGTON — In a discouraging cop-out at the end of a discouraging year, Time magazine has decreed that no creature burdened with love and hate, hope and fear, passion and compassion or ideas and ideals is worthy of being named man or woman of the year for 1982.

The magazine bestowed the honor instead upon the computer. What a bleak commentary on the world in which we live, and what a discouraging outlook for 1983 and all the infinite years beyond.

It was microchips and electrical currents and printouts that enabled some poor humanoids named Jarvik and Devries to design and implant in the body of another humanoid named Clark a mechanical contraption of chambers and valves through which blood is pumped by alternating air pressure.

But computers could not hope it would work, fear when a valve failed, rejoice at success. Barney Clark for Man of the Year. Mrs. Clark for Woman of the Year.

Computers are this week mulling out, with all the feeling that computers can muster, 90 million tax return forms. At least 1 million of the addresses will have moved, died or gone into bankruptcy.

The other 89 million recipients of these loving letters will file tax returns, 75 million of which will demand refunds. Computers will add, subtract and divide. Tell them where they have erred, mail out refunds without joy, demand more money without pity. The U.S. taxpayer for Man of the Year.

Computers daily, weekly and monthly calculate and print out accumulations of digits that tell other computers — and any humanoids who may be interested — how many people are unemployed, whether it is more or less than before, and what proportion of the workforce the unfeeling digits represent.

They tell how many new applications for unemployment benefits have been filed and how many people have used up all their benefits.

There are no digits on the despair of an autoworker whose unemployment benefits have expired.

The U.S. worker who really wants to work very hard at a tough job, and who really cannot find that job, for Man of the Year.

There is no computer made, no matter how old-fashioned, bulky or obsolete, that couldn't do a better job of developing a national budget than the humanoids at the White House and in Congress.

Computers can calculate the amount of revenues to be expected and outlays required within a wide range of possibilities which other computers have given them — including the number of unemployed, the Consumer Price Index, the production of grain, housing starts, the price of oil and a host of other variables.

They can calculate, based on past performance, the most likely among the possibilities and tell us that the most probable result is that outlays will exceed income by 18.7 percent. They can apply across-the-board cuts of 18.7 percent and calculate how much this would reduce revenues, necessitating further cuts. Eventually they will print out the fact that to achieve a balanced budget in this year's economy would require cuts in all expenditures of 23.9 percent. Presto, they have produced a balanced budget.

Computers may be subject to occasional power outages or overloads, but they never endure pain. They needn't run for election or take abuse from people they have hurt. They needn't make judgments favoring taxpayers or people without jobs. They don't suffer from budget cuts.

In the final analysis, I come down on the side of those inefficient humanoids who balance their own checkbooks only with great difficulty or not at all, but who feel the anguish of the unemployed and hear the moans of the taxpayers. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., for Man of the Year. Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., for Man of the Year. As for an editorial board that exalts a Machine of the Year, a plague upon them. Not since Moses tarried too long on Mount Sinai and his people beguiled themselves by melting down their gold jewelry to make a calf has there been so sinful a computer error.

Post has unfair attack on Legal Services decision

WASHINGTON — This month's flap over the Legal Services Corp. may have had no more than a ladycracker's impact across most of the nation, but here in Washington the story went off with the bang of a cherry bomb. Let me pick up a few missing pieces.

For the record: Congress created the Legal Services Corp. in 1975 to provide legal aid to the poor in civil matters. The agency has been a battleground ever since. On one side are the liberal activists, who want the LSC's lawyers to bring class action suits, to lobby in state capitols for social legislation and to seek sweeping changes in the law.

On the other side are the conservative standpaters, who want the LSC's lawyers to stick to aiding poor persons in such areas as small judgments, evictions, divorce and government services.

From the beginning, President Reagan, a longtime critic of the corporation, proposed to reverse the situation last year. He nominated nine persons to the new board of directors headed by William F. Harvey, but the Senate refused to confirm his choices. A couple of weeks ago the president withdrew all his nominations. Meanwhile the board had elected a new corporation president, Donald Bogard. He took office on Dec. 13.

The big bang came two days later. The Washington Post broke the story under a Page One headline: "Legal Service Appointees Get Fat Fees." The gist of it was that the Reagan nominees have been collecting "large consulting fees," at a rate "at least twice as large as those paid to any previous board."

In the first 11 months of 1982, board members had been paid $156,200, compared with $72,000 for the former Carter board in all of 1981. Chairman Harvey, it was reported, had billed the corporation at $221 a day for four days of driving to and from his home in Indianapolis in order to attend board sessions here.

The story grew. The Post seized gleefully upon the contract given President Bogard. It contains a clause by which the corporation will pay his dues in a private social club of his own choosing.

For several days The Post regaled its readers with juicy tidbits intended to show that the Reagan crowd, as a congressman viewed it, had all four feet and a snout in the trough. "It is disgusting," said a Post editorial. The New York Times weighed in with its own me-too editorial, "Chiselers on the Poor." The Times was outraged that one William Olson, had "bagged" $19,000 for part-time work.

As a smear job — and that is precisely what it was — The Post's reporting had all the beauty of John Randolph's mackerel in the moonlight. The job both shined and stunk.

Why was the 1982 per diem double those of 1981? The Reagan board put in 28 days on corporation business in 1982, the Carter board only 12 in 1981. The per diem rate had been raised by Congress from $192 in 1981 to $221 in 1982. The Reagan members followed the identical practices of the Carter members in tons of fees and travel expenses.

The $19,000 that Olson "bagged" represented $29 an hour — about one-fourth of the going rate for a Washington lawyer. The Times did not mention that board member Josephine Worthy, who serves as the officially designated poor person to represent client interests, bagged $22,000 plus $17,500 in travel expenses.

As for the Bogard contract, the private club provision parallels the same provision in the contracts of his predecessors — a fact The Post grudgingly acknowledged three days after the story broke.

Bogard's contract assures him a year's severance pay, double the severance period provided for last year's president, Dan Bradley, but the circumstances are different. To accept the post as head of the LSC, Bogard resigned from Stokely-Carmichael, where he was chief of litigation, and agreed to move his family from Indianapolis to Washington.

Reading The Post, you kind of wonder whatever became of these elementary rules.

James Kilpatrick writes his column, "A Conservative View," from Washington.

Idaho Power must pass on tax break

BOISE (UPI) — The state Public Utilities Commission upheld Tuesday an earlier ruling that forces utilities to share with ratepayers state tax benefits they receive — a move that will cut electric bills $1.5 million this year.

The ruling orders Idaho Power Co. and Intercontinental Gas Co. to subsidize from power bills benefits they receive from depreciating facilities at an accelerated rate.

Commissioners first imposed the ruling in August, but a rehearing was held after it was challenged by the two utilities.

The PUC decided to re-impose the ruling, but agreed to allow the utilities to pass benefits to ratepayers over a 10-year period rather than over five years.

The decision means Idaho Power Co. will reduce its bills by $10 million over the next decade, while benefits from Intercontinental Gas Co. will total $633,000.

Under Idaho law, utilities may depreciate their property faster for rate-setting purposes.

But the Commission's ruling says the utilities must share those benefits with ratepayers, who until now have been picking up the full depreciation cost.

The utilities initially opposed the ruling, fearing they would lose the tax benefits if they passed them on to ratepayers.

But the state Tax Commission ruled earlier this month that the PUC order would not halt the tax program.

BPA checking out electricity rates

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Rate structures of utilities connected with wholesale power sales to industrial customers are being reviewed by the Bonneville Power Administration, primarily to see if they include costs from defunct nuclear plants in their rates.

BPA Administrator Peter Johnson said Monday one audit already has been completed. The audit of Pacific Power & Light Co. indicated no costs from the defunct Pebble Springs plant was included in its rate structure, he said.

The 1980 Pacific Northwest Power Planning Act prohibits utilities from including expenses from dead power projects in the costs they claim under a power exchange system. Additionally, it provides for periodic checks of the rate structures of utilities participating in wholesale power sale exchanges with the BPA.

Under the exchange system, investor-owned utilities in the Northwest acquire power from BPA, a generally less expensive rate than generating it themselves since much of BPA's power is cheaper hydroelectric.

In exchange, BPA purchases an equal amount of power from each private utility at the utility's average system costs.

Most of the added expense incurred by BPA in the exchange is picked up by the agency's direct-service industrial customers, mostly aluminum companies.

The exchange provides relief for the private utilities' farm and residential customers.

"This was a major benefit-of-the-art," Johnson said. "The industries in return received long-term, 20-year contracts."

The exchange program has forced substantial increases in industrial power rates and the industries, in turn, have closely monitored the private utilities' method for setting costs of power exchanged with BPA.

Though the direct-service industries are concerned mostly with costs associated with the scrapped Pebble Springs plant and defunct Washington Public Power Supply System reactors, several of the utilities being "routinely" reviewed did not participate in those projects, a BPA spokesman said.

Other reviews are under way or scheduled for Portland General Electric Co., Puget Sound Power & Light Co., Washington Water Power Co., Idaho Power Co., Montana Power Co., Utah Power & Light Co., and CP National, a small California firm.

One of the main issues concerning Pebble Springs is the manner in which its debt was wrote off.

Under directions from Public Utility Commissioner John Labdell, PP&L and PG&E wrote off costs from Pebble Springs through earnings from a series of creative financing moves.

The industries believe these creative financing moves ultimately affect the costs of the power exchanged from the utilities with BPA.

Duck hunters dumped when log upsets boat

CALDWELL (UPI) — Three duck hunters tumbled into the freezing Boise River Tuesday after their boat rammed a submerged tree or log and sank, stranding one on a midstream bank as the others struggled through the current to reach shore downstream, authorities said.

The first man to reach the bank walked to a ranch to summon help for the others, who later were picked up by authorities and taken to Caldwell Memorial Hospital.

All three men were in good condition, suffering from the effects of the cold water and sub-freezing temperatures, hospital officials said. They were taken to Caldwell County Hospital, identified the hunters as Armand Eckert, 32, Darrell Scott, no age listed, and Steve Simpson, no ages listed, all of Boise.

Officials said two of the men were taken to the Caldwell hospital from the river banks, while the third man was picked up by rescuers in a boat from where he huddled for two hours in a midstream shallows.

Two of the men originally were stranded on the bar, but one later decided to swim to shore, authorities said.

Idaho State Police dispatch supervisor Don Hiebert in Boise said the mishap occurred near Roser's Ranch between Caldwell and Nodus and near the intersection of Dixie and Weltz roads.

Prisoner lights cell on fire

SANDPOINT (UPI) — A Priest River man was accused of assaulting a police officer Tuesday and — about two hours after his arrest — setting fire to a blanket in his jail cell, Bonner County law enforcement officials said.

Sheriff's deputies said David Paul Banks, 38, Priest River, was arrested about 2:25 a.m. following a scuffle with a Priest River policeman.

The policeman, Joe Catano, was taken to a Newport, Wash., hospital where he was treated for minor injuries and released, hospital officials said.

Deputies said Banks was taken to Bonner General Hospital for treatment of minor injuries after he was booked at the jail. Banks was returned to the jail at about 4:40 a.m., 15 minutes before the fire broke out.

deputies said. Banks allegedly set fire to a blanket in his cell, which he stuffed through the food service opening in the cell door, deputies said.

Officers evacuated five prisoners from the jail's top floor to the ground floor for about two hours while deputies and firefighters knocked down the flames and cleared the smoke, said Deputy Russell Osborn.

The prisoners were returned to their cells about two hours later, Osborn said.

Osborn said there were no injuries in the fire.

Deputy Prosecutor Paul Vogel said he expected to charge Banks with third-degree arson, battery on a police officer, disturbing the peace and malicious injury to property.

Union Pacific furloughs 100

NAMPA (UPI) — Union Pacific officials confirmed Tuesday they will lay off for an indefinite period almost all of the 100 employees working at the railroad's car-repair yard in Nampa.

UP spokesman Tom LaHood of Omaha, Neb., said 95 workers at the company's Fruit Express repair shop will receive pink slips Jan. 3. The yard had been responsible, along with a similar operation in Pocatello, for repairing large refrigerated cars.

The vast bulk of those duties will be taken place in Pocatello after the layoffs, LaHood said.

He said the layoffs were due to a decline in rail shipments during the current economic recession.

"The commodities that move in these specialized cars are not being shipped at this time," the spokesman said. "We have more than 600 refrigerated cars in storage because they are just not needed. The traffic volume is too low."

LaHood said some of the Nampans who lose their jobs may be able to transfer later to the Pocatello operation.

Rehiring won't bring state tax credit

By BRUCE BOTKA
United Press International

BOISE — A jobs credit law passed this year by the Idaho Legislature generally would not allow businesses to get tax breaks for rehiring workers laid off during the recession, an official of the State Tax Commission said Tuesday.

Lawmakers earlier this year adopted the tax credit program to spur creation of new jobs. It allows companies to claim a total credit of $900 over three years for each "new" employee as defined by tax commission regulations.

But state Tax Policy Administrator Ike Echeverria said businesses would qualify for credits only if their average number of employees increases relative to past years.

He said the regulations require businesses to increase employment based on an average of the number of workers over one- or three-year periods.

For example, he said, companies that laid off workers in June and rehired them in November wouldn't qualify for the credit unless their overall employment has increased over a period of years.

Echeverria said if the 1982 total for mineral leasing royalties, $6.8 million for payments in lieu of taxes, $318,621 in grazing fees and $12,330 for land sales.

Idaho gets BLM check

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho is $31.428 richer with a payment from the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, which includes money from public land sales and collections for certain uses, the agency's state director has announced.

BLM head Clair Whitlock says the latest check comes on the heels of a $2.5 million paid to Idaho earlier this month for the state's share of mineral leasing royalties collected from April through October.

The latest payment brings to $12.2 million the total Idaho has received from the BLM during 1982, Whitlock said.

The payments include: $4.9 million based on a commission formula — is at least one employee greater than the larger of the two calculations for the preceding periods, then businesses would qualify for a $500 tax credit the first year, $300 the second and $100 the third, for that worker.

He said the difference between the two average figures must be at least one employee. Fractions less than one don't count, he said.

Gov. John Evans said earlier this month he believes the new job-credits law might grant tax breaks to businesses which issue pink slips to employees because of the economic downturn, then rehire those workers as market conditions improve.

Evans, in an unsuccessful effort to convince legislators to meet this month in a special session to address the state's anticipated $47 million revenue shortfall, urged lawmakers to "refine" the program to exclude the rehiring of laid-off employees.

Echeverria said businesses can determine if they qualify for the $900, three-year credit per worker by making the following computation:

— Add the total number of workers employed on the last working day of the month during each of the previous 12 months;

— Divide that total by 12;

— Compute the same averages for the preceding one- and three-year periods.

— Compare the 1982 average to the larger of the averages for the past years.

Many firms which laid off employees early in the year and rehired them late in 1982 may find their worker-average for the 12-month period has declined relative to past years, Echeverria said.

What's what

What's a novel? A fictional prose tale of considerable length is how one dictionary puts it. Dr. Samuel Johnson defined it as "a small tale, generally of love." Maybe so. Ambrose Bierce said a novel is "a short story padded." That can't be right. Where's the padding in Carl Sandburg's great novel, printed herewith in its entirety? "Papa loved mama / Mama loved me / Mama's in the graveyard / Papa's in the pen." No padding there.

The day rate to park your car in some New York City garages is $18 now.

Hedgehogs don't catch colds.

MOSES IN MONEY

Q. How much money does Moses Malone now of the Philadelphia 76ers get per game?

A. $26,228.77. That's figured on $13.2 million over the next six years.

Q. Where in the house does the average citizen keep most of the family valuables such as jewelry, so on?

A. In the left rear corner of the second dresser drawer in the master bedroom.

Q. Where did Jackie Gleason get the label "The Great One"?

A. From Orson Welles some years back. It was reportedly Welles' tribute to Gleason's ability to hold his liquor.

WEIRD?

An English textile worker named Edwin Budding carefully observed the workings of a small machine designed to cut the pile on cloth. Just make it bigger, thought he. Correct. He invented the lawnmower. Budding was shy, though. He didn't want his neighbors to know what he was up to. So he mowed his lawn in the middle of the night. Historical records indicate they all thought he was weird.

Noted without comment, this wife's report: "My husband cuts holes in the bottoms of plastic kitchen bags and uses them for underwear."

Three largest financial centers in the world, respectively, are New York City, London and Hong Kong.

National briefs

Clark shows improvement

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Approaching a New Year one expected him to see, artificial heart recipient Barney Clark showed a continued gradual improvement, a hospital spokesman said Tuesday.

"Dr. Clark continues in serious but stable condition," said Medical Center spokesman John Dwan.

"Tuesday was his 27th day. He continues to slowly improve. But there is no major change in his condition."

Cancer kills ex-astronaut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jack Swigert, the former astronaut elected to Congress by Colorado voters who knew he was fighting bone marrow cancer, died one week before he would have been sworn in. He was 51.

June Weiss, his press secretary, said Swigert died Monday night in Georgetown University's cancer research center of respiratory failure.

In keeping with the Republican congressman-elect's wishes, his body will be returned to his native Denver later this week for burial near his father in Mount Olivet Cemetery, and a memorial service probably will be held next week, she said.

Swigert, who flew on the aborted Apollo 13 moon mission in 1970, discovered he had bone marrow cancer in September while campaigning for the Republican nomination to Congress in Colorado's 6th District.

MX draws bloody protest

WESTBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Demonstrators protesting the MX missile system Tuesday used a liquid they claimed was their own blood to paint crosses on the ground outside a GTE-Sylvania plant researching the weapon's control system.

The protesters, saying they opposed funding the controversial weapons system at the expense of the poor, poured a red substance out of baby bottles on the ground at two plant entrances shortly after 7 a.m.

Six of the estimated 14 demonstrators were arrested on trespass charges and released after pleading innocent in Westboro District Court. They were released on their personal recognizance for a Jan. 27 court appearance.

Grace's brother wounded

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — John B. Kelly Jr., brother of the late Princess Grace of Monaco, was wounded as he fought off a robber and underwent surgery Tuesday for removal of a bullet that lodged in his groin.

Kelly, 55, a former Philadelphia councilman and national rowing champion, was reported in good condition at Broward General Hospital.

Kelly was shot late Monday night when he and his wife, Sandra, lost their way while passing through the northwest section of Fort Lauderdale, known as a high crime area, and stopped to ask directions.

"They got lost and Kelly stopped the car to use a pay phone at a service station," said officer Diana Morrisette. "After he completed his call, he was returning to his car and was approached by a black male armed with a gun."

The gunman demanded that Kelly hand over all his money. Officer Morrisette said, but instead, Kelly tried to push the robber down and overpower him.

Quake shakes Nevada town

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A moderate earthquake Tuesday rocked southern Nevada in the vicinity of Basalt, Nev., about 30 miles east of the California border.

No damage or injuries were reported.

The 11.06 a.m. quake, registered 5 on the Richter scale at the University of California seismographic station.

The epicenter of the quake was placed 220 miles east of Berkeley, and 40 miles east of Mono Lake.

Rick McKenzie, a staff research assistant, at the seismographic laboratory said there were no reports of damage from the sparsely populated area.

The quake occurred in the general region of a 3.5 Richter scale rocker in the southeastern part of the Sierra Nevada near Yosemite National Park in California recorded Monday evening.

Storm complicates delivery

DELANO, Minn. (UPI) — Dr. Craig Christianson made a house call on skis Tuesday to deliver a baby in the thick of a blizzard.

Mary Cleveland went into labor while the area was wrapped in a blizzard that left 16 inches of snow. She and her husband, Chris, of Maple Plain, were visiting her mother's home three miles south of Delano.

They called the sheriff's office to ask help in getting to a Minneapolis hospital. The sheriff said it didn't look good, but he offered to contact a doctor who lived half a mile from them.

After contact from the sheriff, Christianson phoned the young couple.

"I hear you're having a baby," the doctor said to the father-to-be.

"Yeah," said Cleveland.

"I'll put on my skis and ski on down," Christianson said.

Lewis arraigned on extortion

CHICAGO (UPI) — James Lewis, a key figure in the Tylenol cyanide deaths of seven people, pleaded innocent Tuesday to federal extortion charges and his lawyer warned the court pre-trial publicity already may have tainted the case.

Roxanne Pulitzer loses custody battle

ROXANNE PULITZER
Can keep the car

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A judge gave multi-millionaire Peter Pulitzer custody of his twin sons Tuesday and awarded his wife her sports car, her jewelry and a paltry $48,000 settlement because she destroyed their marriage with "flagrant acts of adultery."

The blonde, 31-year-old Roxanne Pulitzer, accused by witnesses of making love with a handyman, a French baker, a Grand Prix race driver and another millionaire's wife — was guilty of "gross marital conduct," ruled Circuit Judge Carl Harper.

"Where such transgressions are shown," his ruling said, "appropriate sanctions must be imposed ... not to mention the deterrent effect on other spouses so inflamed."

The brief ruling concluded the lurid, 19-day jet-set trial in which the 51-year-old Pulitzer, grandson of publisher magnate Joseph Pulitzer, claimed his wife of 6 1/2 years introduced him disastrously to cocaine and marijuana — nearly ruining his health — spent his money like water and cuckolded him regularly.

Mrs. Pulitzer, on the other hand, claimed it was he who introduced drugs into the marriage, smuggled marijuana into the country aboard his luxury yacht and had sex with Liza Leydi, his daughter-by his previous marriage.

Both Mrs. Leydi and Pulitzer hotly denied the charges.

Pulitzer was at his ranch north of Lake Okeechobee with his sons and refused to discuss the settlement, but Mrs. Leydi said "he was so thrilled to hear the news." His lawyers said he would issue a statement Wednesday.

Mrs. Pulitzer, who has been staying at the family home in Palm Beach, could not be found and her lawyers refused comment.

Mrs. Leydi, 26, said "I am overjoyed about it. The whole family is, too. I had thought it would wind up this way anyway, but it is good to know that Judge Harper feels the same way about it, too. We couldn't be happier."

Asked about Mrs. Pulitzer, Mrs. Leydi said "I just hope she feels as terrible as she made all of us feel the past year. It has been a nightmare. She is getting paid back for what she has done. She has been a real wreck about it. I hope she has suffered as much as we have."

During the 19 days of testimony which concluded Nov. 9, Mrs. Pulitzer claimed her husband was worth $22 million. But his accountants said she had spent money so quickly his fortune had dwindled to $2.5 million.

Social Security would increase farmers' costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers' labor costs would rise about 30 percent if farm workers were enrolled in Social Security, health insurance and similar programs normally required of other businesses, the government said Tuesday.

An Agriculture Department study said enrollment in certain programs is now mandatory for some farms, depending on their size, the number of employees and the size of the farm payroll.

New legislation and regulations extended coverage under some programs to farmworkers, the report said, adding, "The costs of these employee benefit programs may raise the cost of basic farm wages for some farm operations by more than a third."

In the study, department economist Kenneth Krause said the potential impact of the programs on farm organization could not be accurately measured.

But Krause wrote, "Under some circumstances, the programs could influence changes in the organization and structure of U.S. agriculture."

Substitution of capital for labor, for instance, may be more rapid in certain types of agricultural production, necessitating fewer highly skilled laborers and thus altering the effects of government programs for agricultural employers," he added.

Administrative costs of the programs on small farms might exceed the required contributions, the report said.

The study, conducted in 1981, found that costs of the social programs might influence farm organization, since some costs might be tax deductible for farms organized as corporations, but not for farms with other classifications.

The programs might also slow down a switch to mechanization because of the high costs of investing in the equipment and paying workers' compensation in case of injury, the report said.

Scientists conduct world's 1st fusion reaction

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Scientists at Princeton University Tuesday announced the world's first successful firing of a new-generation nuclear fusion reactor.

The $314 million Tokamak fusion test reactor, funded by the Department of Energy, is part of a national effort to develop fusion as a safe, economical and environmentally acceptable means of generating electricity.

The reactor at Princeton's Forrestal campus was turned on for the first time at 3:06 a.m. last Friday after seven years of design and construction efforts, said Harold Furth, director of the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory.

Fusion reactors create power by using magnetic fields to confine and heat plasma — ionized gas consisting of free electrons and free nuclei — to at least 180 million degrees Fahrenheit so that the freed nuclei fuse, converting mass to energy.

Conventional nuclear power creates energy by splitting uranium atoms in a fission process.

The actual test lasted only five hundredths of one second, but Furth said the duration was not important.

"It's like Columbus finding the New World," he said. "The question is not how big is it, but that they found land."

Lab spokesman Anthony DeMeo said the significance of the achievement is that plasma was made in the Tokamak, which is twice the size of earlier reactors, for the first time "and all subsystems worked."

The machine's larger size and greatly enhanced ability to confine energy means that, unlike smaller reactors, it will be able to achieve the break-even point at which it puts out as much energy for each test as it takes to run the test. It is hoped that break-even will be achieved by 1989.

The next step toward commercial application is demonstration of engineering break-even, in which the power from the plasma is equal to the power required to operate the entire facility. This will require a five-fold improvement in plasma performance beyond the current Tokamak's capabilities. Commercial use is not expected for about 40 years.

Profit taking knocks stock prices off peak

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — Stocks plunged for the first time in five sessions Tuesday when profit takers knocked prices down from all-time highs and blunted a year-end rally.

The session was marred by fire and computer problems.

Trading was slow as the Dow Jones Industrial average, which soared 25.48 points to an all-time high of 1,070.55 Monday, dropped 11.68 to 1,058.87 after climbing 66.04 the previous four sessions.

The Dow, which broke the old record of 1,065.49 set Nov. 3, had climbed 80.30 points over the previous six sessions and 293.63 points since hitting a 27-month low of 776.92 on Aug. 12.

Light of those big gains, it is not surprising for the market to pull back," said Harry Vilcek of Dean Witter Reynolds in Palo Alto, Calif.

The New York Stock Exchange index shed 0.69 to 80.94 and the price of an average share decreased 28 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 1.40 to 140.77. Declines topped advances 934-653 among the 1,963 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 58,610,000.

shares, down from the 64,690,000 traded Monday.

Trading was halted from 8:25 a.m. to 9 a.m. MST by a smoky wedding fire in a window at the NYSE that forced a brief evacuation of the building. The American Stock Exchange briefly halted its options trading — which is based on NYSE-listed issues.

A computer problem between 8 a.m. and 8:14 a.m. MST delayed data transmission from the exchange to the outside and caused confusion but no trading delay.

Federal funds rates banks charge one another for loans rose even though the Federal Reserve revealed it had voted in November to lower the target for the interbank rate.

The Fed's other report late Monday that the nation's money supply rose $600 million in the latest statistical week had no impact on the market.

A composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 71,675,300 shares compared with 75,204,270 traded Monday.

The American Stock Exchange index shed 1.30 to 332.53 and the price of a share fell five cents. Declines topped advances 371-239 among the 834 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 7,582,900 shares compared with 6,612,900 traded Monday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of OTC stocks lost 1 point even to 232.20.

On the trading floor, American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 to 59 1/2 following a 2-point jump Monday. Analysts say AT&T will benefit from the FCC's compensation ruling on telephone rates when AT&T divests its operating units.

El Paso Co., a one-point loser Monday, was second on the active list, up 1/2 to 24. The company has rejected Burlington Northern's offer to buy more than 50 percent of its stock at $24 a share.

General American Oil, a 3-point loser Monday, was third unchanged at 43. The company is fighting a takeover bid from Mesa Petroleum, which said it has secured financing to pursue its offer. Mesa stock lost 3/4 to 13 1/4.

Warner Communications, a 1/4-point loser Monday, rebounded 1 1/2 to 29 1/2.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis is resigning to become president of Western Amex Cable Communications. American Express, the other partner in the cable firm, lost 2 to 6 1/4.

Chase Bank reduces prime

By MARY TOBIN
United Press International

NEW YORK — Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, Tuesday lowered its prime lending rate to 11 percent from 11 1/2 percent.

It was the first, major bank to respond to the Federal Reserve's initiative in reducing overnight bank borrowing costs.

The only bank to follow suit was Miltel Manufacturers Bank of Los Angeles. Another small bank, UMB Bank & Trust Co. of New York, had moved its prime rate down 1/4 percent Dec. 14 after the Fed installed a half point cut in its discount rate.

Although money market rates historically have supported at least a point reduction in the prime rate, several factors have made banks hesitant to follow these formulas in passing along lower borrowing costs to their business customers.

"Banks may, at least in the coming year, seek wider spreads between their borrowing and lending charges in view of the building level of nonperforming loans, both on the domestic and international level," William V. Sullivan Jr., senior vice president at Bank of New York, said.

The new money market accounts being offered by banks also support the reluctance to lower lending charges.

Bank of America, San Francisco, however, provided consumers with some good news on the interest rate front.

The nation's largest bank is reducing rates for loans to purchase new and used automobiles by amounts ranging from 3/4 to 4 percentage points, depending on the type, amount and length of the loan.

The rate to buy a new car was reduced to 15 percent on a three-year loan and 15 1/2 percent on a five-year loan from 16 1/2 percent. A loan for a used car was reduced to between 15-21 percent from 16 1/2-25 percent, the bank said.

Business customers should also begin to see relief from high borrowing costs next year. Seasonal factors have kept upward pressure on the federal funds rate—a key source of bank money, despite dramatic accommodation by the Fed.

Walesa denies Nazi leanings

By RUTH E. GRUBER
United Press International

WARSAW, Poland — The official Polish media Tuesday accused former Solidarity chief Lech Walesa of pro-Nazi sympathies and revived charges that leaders of the outlawed union had contacts with Italy's Red Brigade terrorists.

The army newspaper Zolnierz Wolnosci quoted a commentary by Eugeniusz Guz, a senior editor at the official news agency P.A.P., criticizing Walesa for an interview the labor leader reportedly gave to the West German magazine Bunte.

"We highly value the Germans, especially because they help us particularly much," it quoted Walesa as saying. "They extend to us the largest assistance. Tell your fellow countrymen that we, the Poles, will not forget it."

Walesa was further quoted as saying: "The Poles and the Germans know what suffering means. We, the Poles, at least constitute one nation in our suffering. On the other hand, the Germans are divided and this is terrible."

In his commentary, Guz said Walesa was "highly irresponsible" for commenting on the question of the two Germanies at all. He also said Walesa "apparently is not aware that he hits out at the memory of millions of victims of Nazi bestiality by putting the sufferings of the Poles and Germans on a par."

The Nazis occupied and devastated Poland during World War II, killing more than 6 million Poles, and Polish-German relations still are an especially touchy subject.

A Walesa spokesman reached by telephone at his home in Gdansk, denied Walesa had given such an interview or made such statements.

"I must say for sure that such an interview did not take place," he said, after consulting Walesa.

He also denied Walesa had had any contacts with the Red Brigades, as alleged by the official Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu Tuesday.

"He would not even know how to get in touch with them if he wanted to," the spokesman said.

Walesa's priest, the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, also denied Walesa had been interviewed by Bunte.

Pam Smith will take the oath of office Jan. 10, replacing Russell Howell Jr. as a Jerome County commissioner

Madam commissioner

First female Jerome County commissioner eager to start job

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The first woman who will serve as a Jerome County commissioner was brought up to believe that she could attain any goal she really wanted.

With that philosophy, Pam Smith is eager to take on county government.

The 35-year-old school teacher was appointed by Gov. John Evans earlier this month to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Commissioner Russell Howell Jr., a Republican who was forced to give up his office for health reasons.

"This is an opportunity I would have been very foolish to pass up, given my background and interests," Smith says of her appointment.

Howell's resignation left the three-member commission with all new blood after the two other incumbents lost in the Nov. 2 election.

While it could be frightening to assume public office with no experienced co-workers to guide the new officials through a learning period, Smith says it may not be all bad.

"This could be good. We are all starting new and while we may make some mistakes, we are aware of mistakes in the past and how easily they can be made."

"I think there are a lot of competent county officials and employees, including the new county clerk, whom we can call on for guidance," she says.

To learn all that they can about their new responsibilities, Smith and the other new commissioners, Carl Butler of Jerome and Carl Montgomery of Eden, have been sitting through the weekly county meetings, asking questions and taking notes on information offered by commissioners Mel Grindstaff, Henry Schulte and Howell.

To become a commissioner, Smith is leaving a teaching position in the Jerome Junior High School.

"I love to teach and I hate to give it up," she says. "But I also love learning and new challenges and being a commissioner is certainly going to provide these."

Smith says a fellow teacher, who heard about the Howell vacancy before it was made public, asked her to "think about" applying for the opening.

"I did think about it and the more I thought, the more it appealed to me," Smith says. "I thought I'd try it out on my husband, Steve, first, and after the usual chuckles, he told me very seriously that he thought I could do it. Many other people offered support. It was wonderful how both Republicans and Democrats supported me."

Smith says that she isn't sure she would ever have been a commissioner if she had to campaign for the office, but getting there by appointment will help pave the way for a campaign if she runs for the office in two years.

Smith says that while it is something of a foregone obligation to the party to be a candidate in two years after earning the appointment, she will make that decision in two years.

"If I feel at that time I am not doing things right I won't run for the office," she says.

Smith's education basically has been in political science. She has been active in the Republican

Federal help asked to fight stock disease

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

BOISE — The Idaho Department of Agriculture asked for federal assistance Tuesday in battling a livestock disease plaguing southern Idaho.

"We're concerned enough we've asked for federal help," said Greg Nelson, the state veterinarian for the Idaho Department of Agriculture. A letter was mailed Tuesday after a phone request for assistance was made Monday.

The request was made to the Veterinary Services Department of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The state requested help to try developing a vaccine for the disease, and to conduct research to find out if Idaho cattle, swine and horses are being afflicted with a new strain of the virus disease, vesicular stomatitis.

The disease causes sores in the mouth and sore feet. Until this fall, it had not appeared in Idaho, although it is common in the southeast states. Afflicted animals lose weight, though they do not die often. It has posed severe problems in dairies, where cows can get sore teats that make milking difficult.

The disease, which can give humans sores in their mouth and flu-like symptoms, normally is transmitted by biting insects. But despite cold weather that killed the insects, the disease has continued to spread during the winter, Nelson said. That is part of the reason he worries that a new strain of the disease has appeared in Idaho. Another cause for suspicion, he said, is that "we're not documenting any mild cases of the disease. They're all severe."

Last week, Nelson announced a quarantine on livestock sales from any farm or ranch where the disease is present. One diseased horse could prevent the sale of all cattle on a ranch. He said he expected the quarantine to cause a financial hardship, but it was necessary to control the disease before spring, when a new crop of insects would threaten to make the disease epidemic.

Tuesday, Nelson sent letters to all the large-animal veterinarians practicing in areas where the disease has appeared, telling them that they are responsible for helping spot diseased herds and placing quarantines on them.

"They are all deputy state veterinarians," Nelson said. "As a result, I've got the right to have them in service on any of these exotic disease outbreaks."

Nelson estimated last week that about 25 farms and ranches would be quarantined. About half were expected to be in the Magic Valley. Now, he has doubled that estimate and expects up to 50 farms and ranches to be hit with quarantines. The sale ban resulting from the quarantines probably will last about six weeks, he said. They will be lifted 30 days after all symptoms of the disease disappear from the livestock on a farm or ranch.

Appointees receive oath despite view the action is illegal

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — All of the new members to the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission and the board of the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center had been sworn into office as of Tuesday.

All of the new members — three on the zoning board and four on the hospital board — will assume office on Jan. 1. The last appointee took the oath of office Monday while the rest took their oaths Thursday, county Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said.

The announcement came on the heels of last week's conclusion by county Prosecutor Harry DeHaan that the appointments were illegal. The appointments had generated controversy because some of them were made by outgoing County Commissioner Mel Leonard of Filer, who will be replaced by newly-elected Commissioner Judy Felton of Buhl on Jan. 1.

Critics of the move argued that the terms of the county board positions will not expire until after Felton takes office. But the county commissioners contend that the terms always have expired at the time of the year. Tradition also provides that the commissioners who are in office — including any retiring members of the county board — make the appointments.

But that policy was never written down. As such, DeHaan concluded that the county board was bound by state law, which links the beginning of one term — and the ending of another — with the swearing-in ceremony.

Board members traditionally take the oath of office sometime in mid-January, DeHaan noted in his opinion.

As such, the decision to appoint new members now was illegal, DeHaan said.

But the prosecutor's opinion came only as advice to the county commission and was not binding upon them.

Hempleman said the county board disregarded DeHaan's opinion.

But he added that the controversy surrounding the appointments led the county commissioners to do some legal research. They concluded that new board members must take the oath of office within 10 days of their appointment, Hempleman said.

That research also indicated that a state law called for the terms of new county hospital board members to begin on the second Monday of October. As such, the terms of the four hospital board members will run until October 1986, he said.

Asked if the controversy may have had a positive effect, Hempleman said, "Sure it has. It got us all educated."

Finally, the county board last week passed a resolution calling for the terms of county board members to begin on Jan. 1, Hempleman announced.

"If it wasn't clear before, it will be now," Hempleman said. "Addition is fine until someone questions it."

Contacted Tuesday, DeHaan said that he was unaware of any of the county commission's actions. But those actions did not change his opinion, the prosecutor said.

"I think it's ineffectual because you can't fill a vacancy until a vacancy occurs," DeHaan said.

He added that the move places the validity of future zoning board decisions in question.

Jerome fairgrounds to be training site

Guard plans indoor tank firing range

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Construction of an indoor tank firing range at the Jerome County Fairgrounds has been proposed by the Idaho Army National Guard.

Jerome County commissioners received a letter and drawing Monday showing that the proposed facility would be located just northeast of the Guard's armory building at the fairgrounds.

Commissioner Russell Howell, Jr., said the sophisticated training facility would serve guardsmen from throughout Southern Idaho. It would be designed to provide simulated tank-firing training through the use of small-caliber ammunition and would be completely safe, he said.

"There is no way the bullets can get outside of the totally enclosed range or cause any damage," Howell said. "This will bring additional revenue into Jerome since outside Guard units will be coming here for training."

The tank range building will be 140 feet long and 40 feet wide and located so that it will not interfere with other uses of the Guard armory or with the Head Start school playground just east of the existing armory building, he said.

Capt. Rick Hoverson of the local Guard unit's regimental headquarters in Twin Falls, told the Times-News Tuesday that the guard is waiting only for funding of the project, and that is expected in the very near future. Until the funding is available, a construction date remains undetermined.

Capt. Hoverson said one of the basic assets of the training facility will be economy. Another will be the ease of training a large number of guardsmen in a relatively short time.

He said that the building will be similar to one the Idaho Guard designed and constructed at Gowen Field in Boise about three years ago.

Two tanks will be permanently located in lanes inside the building. Each will be equipped with all the usual gunnery and tracking equipment for battle conditions.

But instead of firing the normal 105mm tank rounds, which cost about $400 per round, the trainees will be firing a special .22 caliber bullet that sells for pennies each. The economical bullet, in combination with the simulator from which it is fired from the tank's main gun, has ballistic characteristics similar to the normal main-gun round fired by the tank.

The trainees will fire from the tanks at simulated targets that are made to scale and appear in observation scopes exactly the same size as an approaching enemy tank. The bullets are designed of a material that will disintegrate on contact with the target or wall and cannot penetrate anything thicker than a two-by-four board.

The building design probably will include steel plating behind the target area as an extra precaution, the officer said.

"By the time our guardsmen go into the summer training maneuvers and fire the actual tank rounds they should be much more accurate and require much less field practice," Hoverson said.

He said the guardsmen themselves will build the facility. The one built by the Idaho Army National Guard in Boise is probably the first such training facility in the country, he said, and it has attracted attention from around the country.

The Jerome unit will be similar, but improved in some areas, he said.

Jerome County faces road maintenance suit

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Court action will be filed in Jerome that may determine future policy in the county on subdivision road-maintenance responsibilities.

The Jerome County commissioners were advised Monday of pending legal action that will attempt to force the Jerome County Highway District to maintain the main road serving residents of the Canyonside Estates Subdivision.

Attorney John Heazler, who represents subdivision residents, advised commissioners of a request for declaratory judgment that will be filed in Fifth District Court in Jerome County against the highway district and the county commissioners.

The legal document requests the court to declare that the Jerome County Highway District is responsible for maintenance of Dee Drive, the main roadway through the subdivision, on grounds that it is dedicated to the public and used by the public. The request for declaratory judgment points out that the subdivision plat dedicating Dee Drive to the public as a public roadway was accepted by the county in 1973.

Residents of the subdivision want the highway district to provide snow removal, grading and other general

Impact of holiday blues is yet to be felt

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The economic crunch and differences with relatives might be leaving some people feeling depressed this holiday season, but Twin Falls-area social service officials say the number of calls for help is down.

The Christmas season is typically the slowest time of the year for the Twin Falls County Mental Health Services, while January is the busiest, says Phil Grover, the county mental health services director.

December is also a slow month for the Walker Center for Alcoholism and Drug Abuse in Gooding, says Karl Bergstrom, the treatment director. Bergstrom also says business picks up after Christmas.

Ella Nelson, a counselor, who has operated a private practice in Twin Falls for three years, says the drop in people seeking help doesn't mean that people aren't depressed or that the holiday blues are a myth. Nelson says many people don't know where to look for help or think waiting will solve their problems.

Grover says that waiting could make things worse for people with serious problems, but that the holiday spirit might help people with borderline anxieties improve.

For those suffering from holiday stress, Grover suggests talking to a friend or clergyman. He also advises taking a break from gift-giving and buying a gift for oneself. If the stress of gift-giving doesn't work, and the problems seem serious, then Grover recommends professional help.

The Twin Falls County Mental Health Hotline, the Women's Crisis Center, the Magic Valley

Alcohol Rehabilitation Center, the Walker Center, and private counselors are some of the places people in the area can turn for help.

Although people might feel troubled over the holidays, the number of suicides during the period no longer increases, says Jim Antrim, chief of the Idaho Bureau of Mental Health.

A Twin Falls woman successfully committed suicide last week and two area men made unsuccessful attempts. Boise police reported three suicides over the last week.

Antrim noted that the annual Idaho suicide rate was greater than the national average over the past eight years. Idaho averaged 16 suicides per 100,000 people, while the national average was 11 per 100,000. Antrim, however, noted that the higher rate is typical for a rural underpopulated area.

Rupert man's prison term upheld

BOISE (UPI) — A federal judge refused Tuesday to intervene in the case of a convicted cocaine dealer. The judge's decision was upheld by the Idaho Court of Appeals in the attorney's alleged misconduct during the investigation and trial of his case.

Rupert native Michael C. Couch asked the U.S. District Court to take jurisdiction of his case and free him from the 15-year sentence at the Idaho State Penitentiary. But Judge Marion Callister dismissed the petition, saying the state courts' review of the case was proper.

Even though it upheld Couch's two convictions on drug-trafficking charges, the Court of Appeals in its June decision urged the State Bar Association to consider taking disciplinary action against a Caldwell attorney for the way he handled the case while he was a deputy prosecutor for Canyon County.

In a motion asking the federal court to lock into Couch's convictions and sentencing, defense attorney Craig James repeated allegations that Couch was a victim of "prosecutorial misconduct" and "excessive sentencings — that the defendant claimed constituted cruel and unusual punishment.

James asserted that then-Deputy Prosecutor William H. Wellman suppressed evidence favorable to the defendant, who was convicted in 1979 in Caldwell on charges of dealing cocaine.

Nevertheless, Callister ruled that he could not get involved in the Couch dispute because it appeared to him the Appeals Court fully reviewed the original appeal. He also said that he could "find no reason to overturn the presumption that the Idaho Court of Appeals is correct."

The judge, in addition, said the sentences imposed against Couch were proper because they did not exceed allowances under state law.

Couch, 31, was sentenced in May 1980 to two consecutive five-year prison terms by Third District Judge Lloyd McClellin. He then received an additional five-year term, also to be served consecutively, from Judge Sherman Bellwood of the Fifth District Court following conviction on a similar charge in Minidoka County.

The Idaho Supreme Court upheld the Minidoka County sentence in August. Two months later, the Court of Appeals affirmed the Canyon County portion of the case — attaching a strongly worded statement that the prosecutor's actions "may have violated one or more sections of the Idaho Code of Professional Responsibility for Lawyers."

The court said that although it believed a new trial was not necessary in the Couch case, it wanted to signal Idaho prosecutors that "the primary duty of a lawyer engaged in public prosecution is not to convict, but to see that justice is done."

An opinion from the Court of Appeals said Wellman told an informant to hide out to avoid being subpoenaed by defense counsel. It also said Wellman told the unidentified informant that if he did testify and "said anything to hurt the prosecution, his probation violation would stand a good chance of going to court and the deputy prosecutor would prosecute it to the fullest."

Muriel L. Worth

TWIN FALLS — Muriel Paulina Leighton Worth, 70, of Falls Church, Va., a former Twin Falls resident, died Monday in Arlington Hospital in Arlington, Va., following a lengthy illness.

Born Feb. 12, 1912, in Twin Falls, where she was raised and educated.

She attended Santa Monica Junior College in Santa Monica, Calif., and in 1939, moved to Washington, D.C., where she had a long and varied career in federal service. As a writer and public relations specialist, she served in staff assistant to the late Sen. Thomas of Idaho.

During World War II, she moved to the War Shipping Administration and filled subsequent posts with the Maritime Commission, the Bureau of Public Roads and ended her federal career in the office of the Secretary of Defense Department.

She was an active member of the Western Baptist Church of Arlington and the Catherine Montgomery Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Surviving are: two daughters, Patricia Jean Scott Weidman of Huntington, Md., and Katherine Marie Worth of Washington, D.C.; a son, John Leighton Worth of Leesburg, Va.; two brothers, Ralph Leighton of San Rafael, Calif., James Leighton of Portland, Ore., and Paul Leighton of Thinsville, Wis.; two sisters, Carrie Lake and Edith Allenbach, both of Sacramento, Calif.; two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Party for the eight years that she has resided in Jerome and for several years prior to that in Twin Falls.

Born in Idaho Falls, she was reared on political and public-service activities.

Until the end of the school year, Smith says, she will be somewhat torn between the obligations of her teaching position and her county government duties. She will be stretching her time to cover classroom duties, work at home, and weekly county commission and related public meetings and duties.

"I'm not familiar enough yet with the county operation to say what changes or improvements I would like to see. But from what I have heard in the commission meetings the past few weeks, it seems to me the policy of handling county indigent medical costs, in view of the tight budget and unemployment rates, could well be our number one problem," she says.

But with a good working relationship with her fellow Republican commissioners, Smith thinks there won't be many unsurmountable problems ahead.

applicant, that's certainly the first thing I would look into," DeHanna said.

In a related development, Felton has promised changes in the way appointments from District I will be made. In a prepared statement issued last week, Felton called for the following, which would apply to her appointments:

- Prospective board members would be given a job description, outlining the responsibilities of the position.
- Hospital board candidates would be asked to review hospital-budget projections, read the handbook for hospital trustees and tour MVRMC.
- Zoning board applicants would be asked to meet with the zoning administrator, attend a zoning board meeting and to study the county's zoning ordinances.

RICHARD MANNING

Manning tapped for news editor post at paper

TWIN FALLS — Richard Manning, night wire editor at The Times-News, has been named news editor with responsibility for The Times-News' national and international news report.

Manning joined The Times-News staff in August from the Wood River Journal in Halley, where he had been editor of that weekly newspaper since 1980. Previously, he was city editor and a reporter at the Idaho Falls Post-Register and a reporter in his hometown at the Alpena (Michigan) News.

Manning is a 1973 graduate of the University of Michigan, where he was elected to political science. His wife, Margaret, teaches elementary school in Bellevue. They have a son, Josh.

Manning replaces William Ostendorf, who has resigned from The Times-News staff to accept the position of graphics editor at the Ogden (Utah) Standard-Examiner.

maintenance of the road. As an alternative, residents request that if the highway district is made responsible, that the court declare that Jerome County is required to provide maintenance for the road.

The three county commissioners, elected who will take office Jan. 10, attended the meeting Monday and were given a review by current commissioners of pending projects and anticipated problems to be met in the coming year.

Requests for medical and other indigent assistance that came before the board Monday were cited as examples of what the new commissioners may experience in growing requests for assistance in coming months.

Commissioners listed the proposed sewer project on South Lincoln Street as one of the top priorities for attention in the coming year. Commissioners have been working for the past several years to obtain financing for a sewer line that could mean commercial development along the highway at the south entrance to Jerome, which they consider a logical site for commercial growth.

Your Spine & Health: KNEES

by Dr. Ludwig G. Landwehr

THE KNEE is a peculiar and complicated joint. Unlike other joints it has only a partial capsule of ligament. Tendonous fibers continue from the muscles of the front of the thigh and have the knee cap imbedded, thereby completing the capsule of the knee joint.

Weakness of the muscles allows too much slack and too much fluid to gather. Dr. Landwehr

Many conditions of the knees — cracking and swelling — may be due to lack of tone. Knee exercises will improve the tone of the thigh muscles.

If you are concerned with your knees and notice conditions that do not appear to be normal, it is recommended that you visit your doctor of chiropractic. According to your problem he will treat you, give you advice and recommend specific exercises.

Vandals tip Ducks with late surge

By The Times-News

PORTLAND, Ore. — Playing without front-court men Kelvin Smith and Phil Hopson, the Idaho Vandals received sterling guard play from Joe Sweeney and Stan Arnold in the closing minutes Tuesday night to outlast Oregon, 56-53. In the semifinal round of the Far West Classic Basketball Tournament.

Idaho will tip to defend its tourney championship today at 10 p.m. MST against the winner of Tuesday night's Lamar-Oregon State contest. That game ended after The Times-News went to press.

Twice the Vandals found themselves trailing by eight points in the second half. Their plight appeared worsened when Smith and Hopson, burdened by the task of trying to guard Oregon's twin 7-foot towers, Blair Rasmussen and Ron Burns, fouled out with 6:30 and 2:50 left, respectively.

Sweeney began his heroics with the Vandals trailing 44-40, scoring after an Oregon turnover and hitting a free throw after making a steal to bring Idaho within one.

The margin was the same, 46-45, when Hopson committed his fifth foul, bringing Jerry Adams, a 43 percent free-throw shooter, to the line. Adams sank both shots, restoring Oregon's three-point lead.

During the penultimate minute, Dennis Duntun hit three of four free throws and Dave Brantley added two more for Oregon, as Idaho answered with baskets by Sweeney and Arnold to trail 53-49.

With 55 seconds left, Arnold canned two charity shots, putting the Vandals within 53-51. Sweeney instantly stole the ball, drew a foul from Oregon's Paul Bain and, after the obligatory Duck timeout, hit the second of two free throws to pull Idaho to 53-52.

Not finished, Sweeney pliffed Oregon's inbounds pass, shot and missed, but grabbed his own rebound. After a Vandal time out, each team traded missed shots, but after their miss, the Ducks fouled Idaho's Pete Prigge with 19 seconds left. Prigge converted both ends of the one-and-one, giving Idaho a 54-53 edge.

Oregon's Brian Trendell charged with six seconds left, and two seconds later, Arnold established the final margin by meshing two more free throws.

Both teams yielded points grudgingly in the first half, though that wasn't necessarily due to stifling defense. In the Vandals' case, they failed to convert several easy field goal attempts (they made just six of 21 first-half shots, for 21 percent) and free-throw opportunities.

The latter wasn't a problem for the Ducks, who made 11 of their 12 free throws before intermission, fueling their 23-19 halftime lead. Another factor in Oregon's first-half lead was Gary Gatewood, who came off the bench to fire in eight points.

In consolation-round games earlier Tuesday, Montana State routed Portland 66-44 and Tennessee State shaded Drake 66-63.

Bryant makes final bow at Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Alabama's Bear Bryant, who closes out his career as the winningest college football coach in tonight's Liberty Bowl, said Tuesday that if he had it to do over again he would try to be a "better Christian."

Bryant's Crimson Tide will attempt to give the fabled coach his 323rd career victory over 36 seasons against Mike White's Illinois squad.

Bryant was asked at a news conference what he would do differently.

"It would take me two weeks to write that," Bryant told a room crowded with reporters. "First off, I wish I could have been a better Christian."

The Tide coach said he will miss most "my privileged association with more young people than any other coach. I would like to be remembered as having been a good influence."

White, 46, in his third year at Illinois, said he did not think all the attention given to the game because it was Bryant's last effort would have any effect on his players.

"I know we're not the sentimental favorite," he quipped.

"When I first heard that coach was going to retire, I made up my mind to prepare as best we could and play the best we can," White said.

Both teams go into the contest with 7-4 records.

Whatever happens in the nationally televised game, some streaks will have to fall.

White has never coached a losing post-season game and Illinois is undefeated in three previous bowl attempts. Bryant has never lost to a Big 10 school.

The retiring Alabama coach said he won't do much coaching from the sidelines. "I'm not going to interfere much," he said. "It won't matter what they learn today or tomorrow."

White said he anticipated a "great game," and described Bryant as "the greatest coach of all time. There has never been a man who had more influence on the coaching profession."

The Fighting Illini coach responded to a question about what it will take to win the bowl game, saying, "I think the team that keeps its poise and plays relaxed, competitively will win. Both teams have incentive."

Bryant was asked about the vast horde of reporters and the media attention given to the game will affect his players. "I'm going to whisper something to them about it (at practice)."

Bryant, who had head coaching jobs at Texas A&M, Kentucky, and Maryland before returning to his alma mater, said he would have a difficult time sleeping Tuesday night, just like he does for every game.

"This is just another game, another big game. The next game is always the biggest game," he said. "I don't know whether the players are prepared or not. I have not been around them."

The only time White and Bryant have met as coaches was in Birmingham in 1972, when the Crimson Tide whipped California 56-0.

Bryant concluded by saying that perhaps the best thing he could do for his successor, New York Giants Coach Ray Perkins, was to lose "52-0."

Coach angers Hannah, Patriots

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots may be a victory away from the playoffs, but All-Pro guard John Hannah is one of several veterans so upset with the tactics of Coach Ron Meyer he reportedly is asking to be traded.

According to one Patriots player, Hannah is one of "at least 30 and maybe 40" players who would like to be elsewhere next season. The news comes at a time when the Patriots, perhaps the worst team in the NFL last year at 2-14, can clinch a playoff berth with a victory or tie Sunday at home against Buffalo.

Hannah, who listed "coaching" as one reason for New England's 37-14 loss to Pittsburgh and said he was "sick of all the baloney," refused further comment until the season ends.

The Boston Globe reported Tuesday that Hannah, in a meeting Monday with Assistant General Manager Pat Sullivan, agreed to keep silent if he could meet with team officials. Including Meyer, after the season to formalize his request to be traded. The newspaper said Hannah already has drawn up a list of teams to which he'd like to be traded.

"He has not told me wants to be traded, absolutely not," Sullivan said Tuesday. "All he said was that he wanted to sit down and talk after the season is over. I assumed it was about other matters."

Hannah's discontent and that of others stems mostly from Meyer's rules and regulations, which many view as petty and counter-productive, and his coaching, which several see as

Battle set for New Year's Day

Arizona State's defense to confront Oklahoma's offense

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — The nation's toughest defense goes against the second-best rushing attack as Arizona State and Oklahoma square off in the 12th Fiesta Bowl New Year's Day.

Arizona State finished the regular season 9-2, with losses to Washington and Arizona in its last two games killing its chances for the Rose Bowl. The Sun Devils claimed the 11th spot in the final regular season rankings after coming off probation.

Oklahoma, 8-3, was ranked 10th. Arizona State opponents averaged only 22.9 yards a game — 95.8 on the ground — during the regular season.

Oklahoma averaged 338.5 yards rushing with a stable of running backs, helped by a switch from the wishbone to the "I" formation after the Sooners lost two of their first three games.

Fiesta Bowl

"Oklahoma has a lot of running backs... always has and always will," says ASU Coach Darryl Rogers. "We haven't played anybody with these kinds of running backs and this kind of team speed."

Sizing up the Sun Devil defense, Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer says,

"Arizona State has as fine a defensive team as there is in the country. They stack right up there with Texas and some of the other great defenses we've played this year. Their statistics indicate we'll have a difficult time moving the ball against them."

Rogers notes the Sooners don't pass much, which makes them less vulnerable to the Devils' blitz that had 49 quarterback sacks during the season.

"But when they do pass, they're very effective," he said. "They tend to get big plays when they do throw because it's a surprise."

Switzer issued a similar warning to ASU's outstanding safety Mike Richardson when the two met in New York after the regular season: "We're kind of sneaky when we throw the ball, Mike."

Rogers said Oklahoma still uses the wishbone in short-yardage situations, which means Arizona State has "to gear up for two total offenses."

"One is enough against a team with Oklahoma's talent," Rogers said. "But, we'll see two and either one can beat your brains out. The wishbone is tough enough to defend, but then to have to worry about the 'I' with a back like (Marcus) Dupree thrown in, wow. Our defense has never been tested like this."

Dupree set an Oklahoma freshman rushing record with 905 yards in 129 carries — a seven yard average. Three other Sooners carried more than 100 times: Stanley Wilson for 845 yards, Fred Sims for 633 and Weldon Ledbetter for 585.

Seven seniors bolster Arizona State's defense — Richardson, linebackers Vernon Maxwell and Mark Hicks, ends Jim Jeffcoat and Bryan Caldwell, cornerback Duane Galloway and safety Paul Meyer. The leading tacklers, however, were in-

The Sun Devils send a balanced offense — averaging 169.9 yards rushing and 192.4 passing — against the Sooner defense, which gave up an average of 139.4 yards on the ground and 163.1 through the air.

Freshman Darryl Clark led the Devils' running game with 577 yards in 100 carries. Junior quarterback Todd Huns completed 16 of 30 attempts for 246 yards and eight touchdowns. His top receivers were split end Doug Allen with 29 catches, tight end Ron Wetzel with 26, fullback Duane Wright with 24 and flanker Jerome Weatherspoon with 20.

Switzer said he expects most of the 70,000-plus fans in Sun Devil Stadium, Arizona State's home field, to be cheering against the Sooners, but, he said, "I don't think that affects a good football team."

Kickoff is 11:30 a.m. MST.

Raiders' Marcus Allen ranks as top rookie

Running backs cream of NFL's rookie crop

By BILL FLEISCHMAN
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

PHILADELPHIA — Judging NFL rookies after eight games is as risky as judging thoroughbreds after eight warm-up laps, or an orchestra after eight bars.

However, after eight games in this botched, strike-shortened season, some conclusions about the first-round draft choices are fair to make:

• The 1982 draft has provided four running backs who immediately have helped their teams. The four are headed by the Los Angeles Raiders' Marcus Allen, the latest in a long line of outstanding players to wear No. 32. The other three are Gerald Riggs of Atlanta, Gerald Willie of Denver, and Avellani merry-go-round appears to be history.

Art Schlichter, the other first-round quarterback selection, was bypassed by Mike Pagen in Baltimore's training camp. Pagen, a fourth-round pick, renewed his Kush connection — he played at Arizona State under new Colts' Coach Frank Kush. Some Baltimore observers, who are skeptical of Schlichter's passing ability, think the day-tough-guy Kush wears pink tights to practice will be the day Schlichter starts for the Colts.

• While several first-rounders have moved into their teams' starting lineups, only a few, other than McMahon and the running backs, have made strong impacts. Among these are Cleveland linebacker Chip Banks, Seattle defensive end Jeff Bryant, Tampa Bay guard Sean Farrell, and St. Louis tackle Luis Sharpe.

This year's player who will forever bear the burden of No. 1 draft status is Ken Sims. The Texas-sized (6-5, 275) former Longhorn starts slowly for New England, prompting more than a few Patriot watchers to wonder about the wisdom of choosing Sims No. 1. A switch from defensive tackle to end, and a nagging lower-back ailment, partially explained Sims' disappointing introduction to the NFL. But, since the strike, he has been more impressive as he and another first-rounder, Lester Williams, have both started on the Patriots' defensive line.

"The defensive line is a hard position to break into," said Gil Brandt, the Dallas Cowboys vice president for personnel development, who is one of the NFL's premier talent gurus. "Two of the things that were worked on least in college, until recently, were pass protection and rushing the passer. And our game now is about 75 percent rushing the passer."

Until a guy like Sims learns how to escape and rush the passer, he is really going to have a hard time. But I can think of very few defensive linemen who have started their first year and really attained anything. I don't think Dennis Harrison (Eagles) played very much the first year... Randy White didn't play very much the first year... I don't think (Louie) Kelcher came in and wonned them the first year."

Like many others, Brandt doesn't rate the 1982 draft as one of the NFL's all-time greats.

"The consensus was it wasn't a very good draft," Brandt said. "You don't have the players who made an impact on their teams like the year before. That year, the team with the 27th worst record (Giants) had the second pick in the draft and they picked (Lawrence) Taylor. And they went to the playoffs. The team with the eighth pick in the draft (San Francisco), took Ronnie Lott and won the Super Bowl. Chris Collinsworth was drafted in the second round and was a Pro Bowl player and his team (Cincinnati) played in the Super Bowl."

"This year I don't think there are any Taylors, Collinsworths, Lotts outside of maybe Marcus Allen. This year (Raiders) was 7-9 last year. With Marcus Allen this year, they're 7-1 and lookin' pretty good, primarily because of Marcus Allen."

With the strike interrupting the development of all players, but especially rookies, Brandt thinks it's an upset that many rookies from this average draft are starting.

"When you take eight weeks out of their progress, you kind of destroy a rookie's chance to do well," Brandt said. "A veteran, because he's been to so many training camps, remembers some things that you've taught him. I don't know whether all rookies, after they have gone home and forgotten about football, come back and remember exactly what was taught to them."

Tom Bratz, the Atlanta Falcons' general manager and another shrewd judge of talent, agrees that the strike has damaged the progress of many rookies. However, Bratz disagrees with Brandt over the quality of this year's draft.

"I didn't think it was as bad as what was projected in the papers," Bratz said. "I think people downgraded the draft too much."

Referring to the 6-1, 230-pound Riggs, who alternates with Lynn Cain in Atlanta's imposing backfield, Bratz

By DON GREENBERG
Dallas Morning News

THE NBA: WEEK NO. 9
Philadelphia's 122-105 triumph over Boston marked Billy Cunningham's 30th career coaching victory. Washington's 77-74 crawl past Cleveland on Tuesday was the lowest-scoring game in nearly eight seasons, since Detroit plodded past Chicago, 79-70. The lowest total since the use of the 24-second clock in 1954 was 119 (Boston 62, Minneapolis 57). All-time low was set in 1950 when Fort Wayne beat Minneapolis, 19-18. Reggie Theus' 46 points Wednesday night was a career high, yet his Bulls lost by nine to Boston. Laker center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar got his 14,000th rebound Wednesday against Utah and now has 14,018. Kansas City's 146-102 victory over Denver Wednesday represented the most points the Kings had scored since the franchise moved from Cincinnati 11 years ago.

PLAYERS OF THE WEEK
Phoenix's Maurice Lucas had the most balanced game of his career against San Diego and led the team in scoring in both games to claim Maverick of the Week honors. Against the Clippers, Aguirre made nine of 17 shots, 10 of 11 free throws, had seven rebounds, 11 assists and 21 points. Against the Suns, he scored 29 minutes and did not have a turnover in 34 minutes. Phoenix's Maurice Lucas averaged 23.8 points and 11.9 rebounds last week to win Player of the Week honors. Lucas, who is ranked eighth in the league in rebounds, helped the Suns to three victories in four games, including a 125-106 romp over the Mavs. Against Dallas Lucas shot 11-for-19 from the floor and 11-for-12 from the foul line for a season-high 33 points while making seven assists and grabbing 17 rebounds in 39 minutes.

CHECK THAT CALENDAR
For NBA history buffs, this week has three noteworthy dates. On Dec.

NBA notes

MARK AGUIRRE
Turns in balanced effort

29, 1979, Houston's Rick Barry became the 15th player to pass the 18,000-point mark. On Dec. 30, 1962, the Lakers' Elgin Baylor set a record with 19 points in one quarter. San Antonio's George Gervin holds the current mark of 33 against the New Orleans Jazz in 1978. And on New Year's Day, 1960, the Cincinnati Royals beat Boston, 128-115, breaking the Celtics' record 17-game winning streak. The 71-72 Lakers won 33 in a row.

A.D. UPDATE
Utah's Adrian Dantley, the league's leading scorer at 30.7, had the team removed from his right wrist Tuesday. If doctors are satisfied that his torn ligaments have responded well, he could resume playing by the weekend. If there hasn't been significant progress, Dantley will have to undergo surgery in early January. That would put him out for the rest of the season. The Jazz won their first two games without A.D., but have lost their last three in a row. Surprisingly, Jeff Wilkins has taken over the scoring role, leading the Jazz in three of the five games. Including a season-high 35-point performance in an overtime victory against Kansas City. Wilkins had his career-high of 37 last season against the Kings.

AND THEY'RE OFF
Utah Coach Frank Layden, that master of invention, thinks the league should open parimutuel betting windows so fans could bet on the winner of each quarter. Layden doesn't mean to change the game, he says. "It suggests is that there be five periods to every game, with a 20-minute break between each so the suckers can get to the windows to drop down their money. Uh, Frank, we'll call you real soon on that brainstorm."

WALTON'S 1-8
After eight losses, the Clippers finally won a game with Bill Walton in the lineup, a 112-105 victory over Portland in San Diego Sunday night. Walton, who has been cleared by his doctors for full-time play starting Jan. 15, had 25 points, eight rebounds and seven blocks against the Blazers. In a Thursday night loss to the Lakers, Walton scored 15 and had 14 boards. Overall, this season, he's averaging 14.9 points on 47.2 per cent shooting, nine rebounds and 4.3 blocks. Says Walton: "Certainly I can get better than I'm playing now. I think I can eventually get better than I was before. It's going to take a lot of good fortune and time, and it's also going to take a lot of good teammates. One of the reasons I've been such an active player over the years is that I've been fortunate to play with great teammates. They do nothing but make you better."

TWO OUT OF THREE
New Jersey Nets guard Ollie Birdsong says, "There are three sure things — death, taxes and my jump shot." "We all know about the first two, but people have started wondering about Birdsong's third certainty. He has lost his starting spot to Mike O'Koren and is averaging only 14.3

BILL WALTON

points on 48.7 per cent shooting, below his career averages of 20.5 and 51.0.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH
After his Warriors lost by 25 points at Seattle, Golden State Coach Al Attles couldn't back the sight of his players any more. "Don't have the bus wait on me," he told assistant Coach John Bach.

MT. MAHORN
Washington center Rick Mahorn is not exactly winning popularity contests for his crushing backcourt picks against opposition guards. When the other team applies backcourt pressure, Mahorn sets his 6-10, 240-pound body in the guard's path, with devastating results. In one game against the Sixers, Mt. Mahorn decked Maurice Cheeks, Clint Richardson and Andrew Toney, who went to the hospital for X-rays of his shoulder, which proved negative. After Detroit's Isiah Thomas was flattened, the little guy chased after Mahorn and rabbit-punched him. "He's going to get his, and soon," Slicker Coach Cunningham said of Mahorn. But what Mahorn does in the backcourt is perfectly legal; teammates are supposed to alert each other for blind picks.

More losses mean higher draft picks

'Catch-22' dilemma enslaves woeful Rockets

By GEORGE SHIRK
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

HOUSTON — It is a world turned upside down. It is the world of the Houston Rockets.

Just listen. If you will, to Rockets Coach Del Harris, speaking shortly after his team's practice Monday at Houston Baptist University:

"This week, at home, we played the Lakers and have the Sixers, San Diego and Boston. We're just glad we can bring in teams like Philadelphia and Los Angeles and Boston for the fans. It's a great week for the fans here."

But from a cold, franchise point of view, the most important game we have is with San Diego. It's a double game — if you're looking at the game in reverse.

Looking at it in reverse, the San Diego game, to be played on Thursday night, is, indeed, especially important to the Rockets, because it is against their rival for the ownership of the worst record in the NBA's Western Conference.

You see, the more Houston loses, the better its chances of locking up next year's top draft pick, be it Ralph Sampson, King Kong or whoever else the Rockets think they need.

If everything works out right (wrong?), the Rockets will have both the first and second picks, alleviating the need for the coin flip conducted between the teams with the worst record in each conference. That is because Houston owns the No. 1 pick of the Cleveland Cavaliers, who seem virtually certain to finish with the worst mark in the East. It got that one, along with Caldwell Jones, when it sent Moses Malone to Philadelphia.

Now, assuming Cleveland cooperates, the only thing the Rockets have to do is keep losing.

"I know that it's a tough situation," Harris said. "It's a Catch-22 all the way."

At no time was that more apparent than on Sunday night. The Rockets came within two points of beating the world champion Lakers, so the fans at the Summit got both an interesting show and a loss that might lead to victories in the future.

That loss, coupled with San Diego's victory over Portland, gave Houston possession, at least temporarily, of the West's worst record. Going into Tuesday night, the Rockets are 4-23, the Clippers 5-23.

Moreover, Cleveland (4-22 before its game Monday night with the Nets) was showing little sign of life in the East, where it trails New York (9-19), the team with the second worst mark, by a significant margin.

"We are reminded of it (the situation) every day," said Jones, who had grown accustomed to winning when he was with Philadelphia. "So you can't help thinking about it constantly."

Not only are the media and fans here putting the heat on the Rockets to lose — the general manager is, too, for heaven's sake. In a guest column in the Houston Chronicle on Monday, Ray Patterson wrote, in hopeful terms, the following:

"After Sunday's games, Cleveland had the poorest record in the East while Houston had the worst in the West. Since the Rockets received Cleveland's first-round draft choice in the Moses Malone transaction, they have an excellent choice of getting the top two choices in the draft and making the coin flip unnecessary."

But that's the future. This season? Forget it.

Harris said, "This whole situation takes away some of the sting of it, because it's easier to be philosophical. But if you grow up playing the game and coaching the game, winning becomes an ingrained condition."

Mets swap Zachry for veteran Orta

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets Tuesday announced they have obtained veteran outfielder pinch hitter Jorge Orta from the Los Angeles Dodgers, in exchange for veteran pitcher Pat Zachry.

Orta, 32, boasts a career batting average of .280 in 11 major-league seasons but played sparingly for the Dodgers last year, hitting just .217 in 85 games. He was 9-for-50 as a pinch hitter for Los Angeles and started 18 games in right field, hitting .291.

The two-time American League All-Star finished second to Rod Carew in the AL batting race in 1974 with a .316 average and had a 6-hit game with Cleveland in 1980.

Zachry, a 30-year-old right-handed starter, posted a 2-9 record and 4.05 ERA in 36 games for the Mets in 1982 and for his career, he is 58-60 with a respectable 3.55 ERA. He was 41-46 overall with the Mets.

"Pat asked us about the possibility of trading his contract and we tried to oblige him," said New York general manager Frank Cashen. "We made a commitment to go with our young pitchers in 1983 and in the future and honestly Pat didn't fit into our plans."

"As far as Orta goes, he's a talented batter who has proved he can hit big-league pitching through the years," Cashen said. "I know we have quite a few left-handed hitting outfielders now and you can look for the Mets to make some other moves before the start of spring training."

Dokes OKs rematch, a spokesman affirms

NEW YORK (UPI) — A spokesman for World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Michael Dokes said Tuesday that the fighter will comply with the WBA's order that he meet former champion Mike Weaver in a rematch.

Although the spokesman said Dokes and his manager, Carl King, would withhold comment until officially notified by the Panama-based governing body, he did say Dokes would comply with "all WBA rules."

Dokes won the crown from Weaver on a technical knockout after 63 seconds of the first round Nov. 10 in Las Vegas, Nev. The TKO ruling triggered a protest from Weaver's camp after referee Joey Curtis halted the bout.

"Carl King, Michael Dokes or myself have not received any official comment from the WBA," the spokesman said. "Until we do we're not going to comment. However, we will live up to rules of WBA. As far as the WBA is concerned, Michael Dokes knocked Weaver out once and he'll do it again."

"Michael Dokes is going to be a fighting champion. Instead of laying idle for more than a year," the spokesman said, Weaver's inactivity before the Dokes' fight.

Dokes won the crown from Weaver on a technical knockout after 63 seconds of the first round Nov. 10 in Las Vegas, Nev. The TKO ruling triggered a protest from Weaver's camp after referee Joey Curtis halted the bout.

Raiders-Coliseum contract to be investigated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The county Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a motion Tuesday to investigate the controversial contract between the NFL's Raiders and the Coliseum.

Among those supporting the measure were two members who also serve on the Coliseum Commission and approved the payment. Supervisor Michael Antonovich submitted the motion, requesting a report from unspecified county officials on the "financial impact of the Raiders' contract on the county."

The Coliseum-Commission, which approved the contract in July, said at that time the deal contained a $6.5 million loan to Raiders' owner Al Davis. But earlier this month it was revealed that the "loan" was actually a gift to Davis and would not be paid back.

Several City Council members claim the terms of the contract, which brought the Raiders from Oakland, will put the Coliseum in precarious financial position for the next four years and could even threaten the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics.

City Controller James Hahn said the Coliseum may run out of money during 1983 and might have to turn to the three governmental agencies that own and operate it — the city, county and state — for bailout funds.

ANSWER: On spade. Tempting to rebid the excellent six card suit, but it's not wise to bypass the four card spade suit.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"As a general rule, the most successful man in life is the man who has the best information." — Benjamin Disraeli.

Declarer has enough information available to make today's touch and go game — East's opening bid tells him where all the key cards are. Those who lack the use of the information will be the rubber; those who forget the bidding go on to the next deal.

The first key decision comes at trick one. Should declarer cover West's diamond jack, hoping that West has both the jack and 10? If this is the case, dummy's nine can be developed immediately to eliminate a club loser for South. With no club loser, the defense gets only two spades and a diamond and declarer gets his 10 tricks.

This line of play loses but it's not a really poor plan. Nevertheless, there is a better plan that's better. The trick is to keep West off lead while declarer develops the club suit.

The diamond jack is not covered at trick one and declarer wins the ace. Declarer's trump eight is led to dummy's 10 and a low club from dummy brings East's queen to South's ace. The club 10 goes to East's king and the defense is finished. East can cash his spade ace and diamond king to hold declarer to 10 tricks or he can refuse to give up and allow declarer to make an overtrick.

Note that it would be foolish to try to develop a spade trick. East's opening bid earmarks the spade ace and the best chance is to find East with both club honors.

ANSWER: Three clubs. Rebidding a six card suit may be tempting but it's more descriptive to raise partner with such a strong club holding.

IT'S TEATIME!

Yes, indeed! All over the country, in the finest hotels and restaurants, the hours between three and five are being devoted to serving that most gracious and relaxed of meals — afternoon tea. In the elegant, flower-filled lounge of the Mayfair Regent Hotel on New York City's Park Avenue, for instance, it's the time to relax with friends and enjoy quiet conversation "over the teacups." Guests are offered a choice of teas, brewed in individual white teapots, carefully kept warm under pretty tea cozies. Sandwiches are made with the thinnest of breads, scones are accompanied by an individual jar of strawberry jam and a little crock of "hard" whipped cream. A selection of luscious cakes is also available, including a delectable pear tart.

Afternoon tea is a delightful way to entertain in your own home. Do it on a weekend or holiday after the workaday week is over. Get out your Sunday-best china and linens; splurge on some pretty flowers. Refreshments can be as simple or as elaborate as you wish. Serve traditionally paper-thin sandwiches filled with cucumber slices and watercress sprigs or spread with anchovy paste. Or break with tradition and serve an array of open-faced canapé-style sandwiches. Either kind should start out with the perfect slice for tea sandwiches — Pepperidge Farm Very Thin Bread — white and whole wheat — and just right for tea sandwiches. Directions for these eye-catching, palate-pleasing tidbits follow.

For the pièce de résistance you couldn't do better than to reproduce the Mayfair's pear tart. Start with a sheet of frozen puff pastry to make a flaky tart shell. This is then filled with a creamy custard, topped with fresh pear slices and glazed with apricot preserves.

Make sure that the tea you serve is freshly made, hot and fragrant. Start with a good quality tea to insure that you'll have a brew that relaxes and revives at the same time. Just follow the simple rules below to bring out the fine qualities and full flavor of the particular tea you choose.

THE PERFECT POT OF TEA

- Use a teapot, preheating it by rinsing it out with hot water.
- Bring freshly drawn cold tap water to a full rolling boil.
- Put the tea (one teabag or one teaspoon of loose tea per serving) into warmed teapot.
- Pour the bubbling water (about 5-1/2 ounces per serving) over the tea.
- Cover and let stand 3 to 5 minutes.
- Remove teabags and stir before pouring.
- If you like tea less strong, add a little hot water after the brewing period.
- Serve with milk (not cream) or with lemon slices, and sugar to taste.

FRENCH FRESH PEAR TART

- 1 Pepperidge Farm "Bake It Fresh" Frozen Puff Pastry Sheet
- Yolks of three large eggs
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 ripe pear, peeled, cored, halved and thinly sliced crosswise
- 1/3 cup apricot preserves, strained and heated

Thaw puff pastry for 20 minutes, then unfold. On a lightly floured surface, roll one sheet to a 10-1/2 x 17-1/2 inch rectangle. Trim edges so rectangle measures an even 10 x 17 inches. From one short end, cut two 1-1/4 inch wide strips. From a long side, cut four 1-1/4 inch wide strips. Moisten the top of all the pastry strips and a 1-1/4 inch wide border around the outside of the pastry rectangle with water. Arrange pastry strips in two layers around edges of rectangle, moist strips down, cutting when necessary, to fit. Press firmly with fingers; then press edges with tines of a fork to seal. Using a sharp knife, make shallow diagonal slashes 1/2 inch apart around pastry border. Transfer tart shell to baking sheet and prick the inside very well with the tines of a fork. Line with wax paper and fill with rice or dried beans. Freeze 30 minutes. Bake in a preheated 425° oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until puffed and golden. Remove, discard wax paper and rice and cool shell completely.

In a bowl, beat egg yolks, sugar and flour together until smooth. In a medium sized saucepan, over moderately high heat, bring milk to a boil. Stirring constantly with a wire whisk, gradually add milk to egg mixture. Return egg-milk mixture to pan, add vanilla and heat over moderately low heat for 5 to 7 minutes, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and is the consistency of a thick pudding. Pour immediately into a bowl and put a sheet of plastic wrap directly on the surface of the cream. Chill at least 1 hour or until very cold.

Spread cream filling evenly over the inside of the baked tart shell. Top with pear slices and brush with apricot preserves to glaze. Refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours and serve. Makes 1 tart, 8 servings.

TEA SANDWICHES

Using a sharp knife, cut crusts off Pepperidge Farm Very Thin White and Whole Wheat Bread. Cut bread slices into ovals, diamonds, triangles, squares and other fancy shapes. Top with any of the following:

- Spread with cream cheese and top with red salmon caviar.
- Spread with cream cheese and top with a thin slice of smoked salmon and a sprig of dill.
- Spread with cream cheese or butter and top with sieved egg yolk, black lumpfish caviar and sieved egg white arranged in a stripe pattern.
- Spread with butter and top with thin-slices of cucumber and/or tomato; sprinkle with salt and pepper.
- Spread with Blue Cheese Butter* and top with thin-sliced red radishes and capers.
- *BLUE CHEESE BUTTER: Mix 1/2 cup softened butter with 4 ounces crumbled blue cheese. Mix until smooth.
- Spread with Herbed Watercress Butter* and top with sliced cherry tomatoes and a sprig of watercress or thin pieces of smoked salmon.
- *HERBED WATERCRESS BUTTER: In a food processor, put 1/2 cup softened butter, 1 cup packed watercress leaves and 3, 3 inch long pieces of scallion or green onion. Cover and process until smooth. Add salt and pepper to taste.
- Spread with Strawberry Cream Cheese* and fresh strawberries.
- *STRAWBERRY CREAM CHEESE: Beat 1/4 cup strawberry preserves with 6 ounces softened cream cheese.
- Spread with Ham and Almond Pâté* and top with sliced black olives and a sprig of dill.
- *HAM AND ALMOND PÂTÉ: Put 1/4 cup chopped almonds, 1/4 pound boiled ham, 3 ounces softened cream cheese, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/8 teaspoon paprika, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 drops Tabasco sauce and 2 to 3 tablespoons sour cream into food processor. Cover and process until smooth.
- Spread with Gingered Cream Cheese* and top with kiwi-fruit slices.
- *GINGERED CREAM CHEESE: Mix 3 ounces softened cheese with 1-1/2 tablespoons finely chopped preserved ginger and 1 tablespoon ginger syrup.
- Spread with Curry-Chutney Butter* and top with a piece of thin-sliced boiled ham.
- *CURRY-CHUTNEY BUTTER: Mix 1/2 cup softened butter with 3/4 teaspoon curry powder and 1-1/2 tablespoons chopped chutney.

Povitica recipe reported

By LINDA CICERO
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

Q. I am looking for apparently an impossible recipe. I was born in a suburb of Cleveland (Euclid) in the 1930s. Most of my friends were of Slovenian descent. Having dinner at a friend's house on several occasions I had a dessert called Potica. It is a nut bread. I have been trying for years to get the recipe, having lost contact with people in Cleveland. Can you help? Or does anyone have the recipe? — M.F.L.

A. Povitica is a rich nut bread of Eastern Europe, made for special occasions such as holidays, weddings and funerals. It can be baked in round, square or loaf-shaped pans.

POVITICA
2 cups hot milk
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 large egg yolk
2 envelopes yeast
1/2 cup warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
8 cups all-purpose flour
Pecan Filling (recipe follows)
1 egg, well beaten
Mix milk, butter, sugar and salt in a large bowl and stir until buttersalt melts. Cool slightly; then beat in egg yolks. In a small bowl dissolve yeast in water; then stir into milk mixture. Add flour 1 cup at a time to make a soft dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface and knead for 10 minutes. Place dough in a greased bowl, turning ball of dough around so it is well coated. Cover with a damp cloth and let rise in a warm place until doubled in volume (about 90 minutes). While dough rises, make filling.

PECAN FILLING
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 cup light cream
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 cups pecans, chopped very fine
4 egg whites
Brown bread crumbs in butter in a heavy saucepan. Add cream and stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Stir in 1 cup of the sugar, salt and vanilla and continue stirring until mixture again boils. Remove from heat, add pecans and mix well. In a deep bowl, beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Beat in the remaining 1/2 cup sugar, a few teaspoons at a time, until stiff peaks form. Fold into nut mixture.

When dough has risen, punch it down and divide into four equal-sized balls. Roll each ball to a 10-by-14-inch rectangle. Spread evenly with 1/4 of the pecan filling (about 1 1/2 cups). Starting at long side, roll up as you would a jelly roll. Coil like a letter "C" into a greased, 9-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pan. Repeat with remaining 3 balls of dough. Let rise until double in volume, about 45 minutes. Brush loaves with beaten egg and bake in 350-degree oven for about 45 minutes, or until a knife inserted in center comes out clean. (You may have to cover loaves with a loose foil tent after 30 minutes if they appear to be browning too much). Povitica tastes best if made at least one day ahead of time.

Q. Help! Help! I need your help. Due to a change in residence this past year I have misplaced my alltime favorite recipe for cardamon cake, which has been a holiday treat for us. The cake is made in a bundt pan or form-type cake pan and is very rich, using lots of butter and of course cardamon spice. Can you please help? Christmas won't be the same without this delicious cake. Thank you. — P.B.

A. A search of our files yielded this recipe for cardamon fruit loaf. It's baked in a loaf pan and calls for shortening instead of butter so it may not be the same recipe you are seeking. If any of our readers have a recipe they'd like to share, we'll pass it on.

CARDAMON FRUIT LOAF
1 and three-fifths cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon ground cardamon
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup shortening
3/4 cup evaporated milk
1 egg
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup mixed candied fruit and peel, chopped fine
Sift flour with baking powder, salt, cardamon and sugar. Add shortening, milk, egg and vanilla. Beat 3 minutes with electric mixer, using medium speed. Scrape sides of bowl frequently. Stir in fruit by hand. Spoon batter into 9 1/2-by-4 1/2-by-2 1/2-inch loaf pan, lined with heavy brown paper and greased. Bake in 325 degree oven for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until tester inserted in center comes out clean. Let loaf stand in pan 10 minutes; turn out on wire rack to cool. Remove paper after it is cool. Makes 1 loaf.

Basque recipe shared

By LINDA CICERO
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

Q. Juanito's Centro Vasco restaurant in Miami's Little Havana serves a marvelous dish in which sea bass is sautéed in a parsley and garlic sauce. Could you ask the cook to share the recipe? — G.M., Miami

A. The restaurant furnished the recipe for this Basque classic: MERLO EN SALSA VERDE (Sea Bass in Green Sauce)
2 pounds fresh fillet of sea bass or red snapper
4 cloves fresh garlic, minced
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 ounces dry white wine
2 teaspoons all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 whole boiled potatoes, cut in halves
8 ounces fish broth
Salt and pepper to taste

In a large frying pan, lightly sauté the fish in the olive oil and garlic. Stir in the flour; add the wine, fish broth, parsley and potatoes. Cook over medium heat until fish is done, approximately five minutes, and add salt and pepper to taste.

Q. Years ago I used to make something called French Chocolate Balls. But I've misplaced the recipe. All I can remember is that you used Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate and Borden's condensed milk (I don't even remember if it was evaporated or condensed milk). I can't remember the measurements or if there was anything else in the recipe. I do know you only had to cook it in a double boiler, roll it in balls and cover it with your own topping. I would love to have the recipe for the holidays. — M.R.

A. We have several cookbooks in our library that catalog recipes from the backs of brand-name products, but the closest I could come to the recipe you are seeking is this one for fudge. It would seem that you could roll the mixture in balls and then in walnuts or whatever, instead of spreading it into a pan as specified in the recipe here. If any of our readers can provide the specific recipe you are looking for, we'll pass it on.

MAGIC FRENCH FUDGE
3 6-ounce packages semisweet chocolate morsels
1 8-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
Dash salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)
In top of double boiler, melt chocolate over boiling water, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; stir in sweetened condensed milk, salt, vanilla and nuts. Spread mixture evenly on waxed-paper-lined, 8-by-8-inch baking pan. Chill for 2 hours or until firm. Turn fudge onto cutting board; peel off paper and cut into squares. Tightly cover any leftovers. Makes about 1½ pounds.

Tangerines are polite citrus fruit

By ROBERT W. STRUBE
Chicago Sun-Times

Loose-skinned-for-easy-peeling-and-segmented-for-bite-size-convenience, a tangerine neither orange, squashes or sequals. Even in the politest society he who reaches for a tangerine reaches for a sure thing.

In addition, the tangerine's sense of timing is perfect. With a November-to-April season that peaks precisely at Christmas, the tangerine for generations has been a reward in every good child's Yuletide stocking. Obliging in all ways, it is a most accommodating citrus.

The word "tangerine" originally designated a small orange from Tangier, a seaport of Morocco. In the commercial sense, "tangerine" has come to mean any deeply colored Mandarin or Mandarin orange hybrid. Mandarins, tangerines and tangies are best described as loose-skinned oranges, but to a botanist all three are Mandarins. The tangelo is the larger Mandarin hybrid. The fruit, as well as its name, is a cross between a tangerine and grapefruit or pomelo, another name for a grapefruit.

The tangerine was extensively grown in China and Japan and did not reach Europe and the Americas until much later. It was introduced to United States in the 19th century when an Italian consul at New Orleans planted a tree on consulate grounds. Tangerines are an excellent source of vitamin C, and two small tangerines contain about 40 calories. Pick fruit that is heavy, its size indicating juiciness.

Tangerine Coleslaw
2 cups tangerine sections
2 cups cabbage, shredded
½ cup raisins
¼ cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon celery seed
Chill tangerines before preparing. Peel and remove white membrane. Pull sections apart. Cut off center-section membrane with scissors. Cut sections in half and add to cabbage and raisins. Combine remaining ingredients and add to cabbage, mixing well. Chill and serve to 6.

Actress unusual type cook

By EDIE LOW
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

Actress June Lockhart has to be the world's most unusual cook.

Her repertoire consists of two recipes — one for cookies and one for candy.

The cookie dough is mixed, then cooked in three minutes in a microwave oven. A special chocolate coating, called summer coating, is melted in the microwave, then poured into molds and allowed to harden.

"I don't cook at all. I learned this just four days before beginning this tour," she said recently while touring on behalf of General Electric's latest microwave production, the Dual Wave.

Lockhart, 57, is probably best known for her six years as the mother of Timmy on the old "I Love Lucy" television shows. That series was followed by three years on "Lost in Space," and two years on "Petticoat Junction."

June Lockhart is "indeed my real name," she said, a name she gives because she was born in June and her parents, the late actors Gene and Kathleen Lockhart, were married in June.

"I'm glad. I like my name. My youngest daughter is also June — June works in 3-D video for home television." Her other daughter, Anne, is in "Battlestar Galactica."

June Lockhart is not married now. "Mercifully, no. I'm the happiest divorcee you'll ever meet," she said, adding that she married a doctor because she was enchanted with medicine.

Lockhart, who began her career when she was 8, stays busy with one acting job after another, she said, which keeps her away from her Bel Air home in Los Angeles for months at a time.

Her most recent credits include the films "Peking Encounter," "Strange Invaders," and "Crisis in Alabama," and guest appearances on the television shows "Magnum P.I.," "Knots Landing," and "The Greatest American Hero."

Lockhart seeks new experiences. She once owned and drove a 1923 Seagrave fire engine. She has flown a blimp and a hot-air balloon, and has driven a 53-ton Army tank. She has cuddled orangutans, tigers and gorillas at a zoo. And she accepted a job on the board of directors of a California savings and loan company, when she knew nothing about finance.

"I told them ... I'd be relying on intuition when I voted," she said. Now she reads financial magazines and newspapers all the time, in addition to the medical magazines she enjoys.

"I'm very interested in medicine," she said. She's compiling a book based on interviews from "Breaking the Habit," a health show she hosts on cable television.

"It will make great airport reading for travelers," she said.

"I eat a lot of raw vegetables, fresh fruit, boiled brown rice and sesame butter. It's very like peanut butter. I eat meat if I feel like it," she said. "I can keep healthy by drinking lots of water and a little tea. And by being careful about letting my system have things that are difficult to digest."

"As careful as I am about what I eat, I am a cookie fiend. Now that I have a microwave ... in three minutes I can make myself a platter of cookies."

Here are her two recipes. The candy does not give amounts, because you can make as much or as little as desired. Regular chocolate cannot be substituted in this recipe for the special chocolate. It and candy molds are sold in stores that specialize in baking supplies.

JUNE LOCKHART COOKIES
1 cup butter
1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
two-thirds cup chopped nuts
Confectioners' sugar for garnish
Cream together the butter, sugar and salt. Beat in vanilla and one-third of flour at a time until all is used. Blend in nuts. Dough will be gray. Form into balls and place on tray in microwave oven. Cook at 70 percent power (Medium High) for three minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with additional sugar. Makes 36 cookies.

MOLDED CHOCOLATES
Chocolate summer coating in various colors.
Candy molds.
Place as much or as little chocolate as desired in a glass container, using separate container for each color. Place in microwave oven and process on full power for one minute. Stir and ladle into candy molds. Let cool thoroughly, then refrigerate until hard. Unmold onto candy dish, or package in gift boxes.

Winter driving tip
Packed snow and ice can make Idaho roads rough or bumpy. Bounce your wheels and use extra friction and braking. Slow down and allow additional time for safer winter driving. This reminder from the Idaho State Police.

Thornton candy is fancier

By BEV BENNETT
Chicago Sun-Times

Tony Thornton never eats chocolate before 11 a.m.

Brother Peter (everyone in the Thornton family gets a title whether it's nephew Michael or brother John) is used to cuddling up.

The two, never letting tongue-in-cheek get in the way of success, are part of the family-run J.W. Thornton Co., the largest chocolate retailer in Great Britain.

The chocolates are more expensive than chocolates sold in Fannie May Kitchen Fresh Candy Shops, but cheaper than designer chocolates such as Godiva or Michel Guirard's line. Following the trend in candy, the Thornton products have more sophisticated fillings than do traditional chocolates.

The Thorntons enjoy their work, although they might not be as immersed in it as one might expect. They don't eat chocolates all day, for example.

"Until five years ago there wasn't a damn chocolate that went out that I didn't taste," Tony said. (Either that was an exaggeration or the designs people thought were cliché in the chocolate were actually trademarks.)

Definitely not a dream assignment, Tony solved the problem in two ways.

First, there's the home panel. "The only chocolates allowed in the house are those that are commented on constructively," said Tony, whose family never lacks for chocolate conversation.

Then, there's the town panel. Thornton's is based in the small English town of Belper, which is frequently enveloped in the aroma of brown sugar. The company management organized a daily panel of townspeople and factory workers to taste the chocolates.

The company was started by J.W. Thornton in Sheffield, England, around the turn of the century and was soon run by his 14-year-old son Norman (Peter and Tony's father).

"Father boiled sweets in the cellar and also tried to make his way as a green grocer — he didn't do well there," Peter explained.

Uncle Stanley joined Norman and decided sweets were more profitable than lettuce.

"They were intrigued by toffee. Uncle Stanley found a cookbook recipe that he improved upon, and the toffee is still pretty much the same," said Peter.

There has been one change. "Once I tried to reproduce a small batch of toffee and got scrambled eggs. I took the eggs out of the company recipe," Tony said.

During World War II there was a sugar shortage in England.

"We imported apple juice and boiled it down for sugar," Peter said. "We could only open for one day a week."

Before the war one of Thornton's best sellers was small Easter eggs. Production had to be discontinued during the war (people apparently weren't interested in Easter eggs made from apple juice).

"Uncle said it's time to start the egg production again. I decided to get my hand in," Tony explained. "Uncle told me to melt chocolate, temper it (a process of melting, cooling and reheating chocolate to make it malleable) and put it into molds. This was done by hand, and I wasted about half the chocolate."

His forte instead seemed to be retailing, while Peter preferred the production end that included occasionally manufacturing equipment for making various chocolates.

Family members contribute to the company, tasting, commenting or helping with the stores.

And how do they like the business? "It's a balanced life," said Peter. "Eat a few good chocolates and walk a few miles."

While chocolates are getting a lot of publicity these days, toffee is still associated with Thornton's. The brothers suggested that it tastes especially good when broken into small pieces, scattered over rice pudding and baked until the toffee melts in.

Baked Rice Pudding
(adapted from the Fanny Farmer Cookbook)
Time: 3 hours, 45 minutes
Cost: less than $1.80
4 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
two-thirds cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons (yes, tablespoons!) uncooked rice
2 quinces toffee, broken into small pieces

Put all ingredients in buttered baking dish and stir to blend. Bake in pre-heated 300-degree oven for 3 hours, stirring three times during the first hour of baking so rice doesn't settle. Sprinkle toffee on mixture and return to oven for an additional 30 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Turkey Burgers are an easy way to use leftover turkey from your Christmas dinner

Put dinner leftovers in burgers

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — If your turkey leftovers usually outlast your turkey recipes, don't despair!

Please the burger fans in your house with tempting Turkey Burgers. These golden brown patties are also a super budget saver because you can use those last morsels that cling to the turkey carcass. Mix in crunchy celery and bold 'n' spicy mustard for a taste combination that can't be beat.

After the bread crumb coating is lightly browned, serve the burgers on your favorite roll. Garnish with shredded lettuce and sliced tomatoes and be sure to pass the mustard.

Turkey Stuffed Peppers make a delicious "hurry up" dish designed for the fast-paced holiday season. Simply add turkey leftovers to a smooth gravy mixture and accent with silvered almonds plus a bit of curry powder. If the turkey has outlasted the gravy (as it usually does) an envelope of turkey gravy mix is a never-fail solution.

Then spoon the mixture into the pepper halves and top with bread crumbs. If you own a microwave oven, you can save additional time by using the specially developed microwave directions which also eliminate the need to pre-cook the peppers.

TURKEY BURGERS

- 2 cups finely chopped turkey
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup seasoned dry bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- French's Bold 'n' Spicy Deli Mustard
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- salt and pepper
- 2 teaspoons butter or margarine
- 4 split hamburger rolls or toasted split English muffins
- shredded lettuce
- tomato slices

Combine turkey, celery, 1/2 cup bread mayonnaise, egg, 1 tablespoon mustard and onions. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Chill. Divide into 4 patties, roll in remaining bread crumbs. Melt butter over medium heat in medium-size skillet. Cook patties until golden brown on both sides. Serve patties in rolls or muffins with mustard, shredded lettuce and tomato. (Makes 4 servings.)

TURKEY STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

- 4 medium-stuffed green peppers
  - 1 envelope turkey gravy mix
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
  - 3 cups diced cooked turkey
  - 2 tablespoons toasted silvered almonds
  - 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
  - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
  - 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- Cut tops from stem end of green peppers; remove seeds. Cook in salted water, covered, 3 minutes and drain. Prepare gravy mix except use milk instead of water and add curry powder. Add turkey and almonds. Fill peppers with turkey mixture. Bake, uncovered, at 375° F for 10 minutes. Combine bread crumbs, butter and paprika. Sprinkle on top of stuffed peppers. Bake 10 minutes longer. (Makes 4 servings.)

Microwave: Do not pre-cook peppers. Prepare gravy following microwave directions on package using milk and curry powder; add turkey and almonds. Fill peppers; top with buttered crumbs. Microwave on high for 10 to 15 minutes or until tender-crisp, rearranging in dish after half of the cooking time.

Books give appliance tips

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

New kitchen appliances under the Christmas tree inevitably create a market for cookbooks telling owners how to get the most out of their new "toys."

Recent publications in this class include "Twice As Fast," for owners of both food processors and microwave ovens; a new Litton microwave book with recipes for crafts as well as food and beverages; and three Better Homes and Gardens books — one each for owners of toaster and microwave ovens and the third, for households with eight appliances: a microwave oven, slow cooker, electric skillet, fondue pot, food processor, blender, crepe maker and wok.

"Twice As Fast," by Sue Spiller (Contemporary Books) is a large format paperback, at $9.95 a reasonably priced teaching tool. The author, a former magazine food editor and freelance writer, provides lots of how-to and why-do information. Her recipes include specialty mayonnaises containing chopped fresh herbs or spinach, and seasoned bread crumb mixes that not only recycle stale bread, but also make mixtures that have no commercial counterparts: Whole wheat and walnut, for example, or hot and spicy, or sesame seed.

Two of the three Better Homes books are bargain priced: "Microwave Cooking Made Easy" is $5.95, and the "Toaster Oven Cookbook," $4.95. Even at $14.95 the "Kitchen Appliance Cookbook" is a good value. You get 609 recipes for eight different kitchen appliances: microwave oven, slow cooker, electric skillet, fondue pot, food processor, blender, crepe maker and wok.

Most recipes in the microwave book come with at least three different seasoning or cooking styles each, and a couple come with six.

Holiday Sandwich Wreath adds a festive touch to your New Year's party

Sandwich wreath delightful

NORWALK, Conn. — Sometimes it seems that no sooner are the presents opened, the turkey cut and the dishes put away from Christmas dinner than it's time to start planning for yet another holiday — New Year's Eve.

For many of us, New Year's parties are much a part of the holiday tradition as mistletoe and holly.

Whether the first party of the New Year will be a large group or just a few close friends, your concern will probably be for creative yet simple entertaining. If this is the case, the Holiday Sandwich Wreath will prove to be true ally to you.

For all its beauty, the Sandwich Wreath is easy to prepare and it's as delightful to the palate as it is to the eye. It doubles as an attractive centerpiece as well as a scrumptious appetizer.

By simply alternating sandwiches filled with delicious spreads of deviled ham, liver pate and chicken salad you get the contrast necessary to create a decorative ham, liver pate and chicken salad you get the contrast necessary to create a decorative wreath.

Just place the mini sandwiches upright in a circle and then add a bright satin bow for the festive finishing touch. And best of all, the Holiday Sandwich Wreath can be prepared well in advance of your party.

HOLIDAY SANDWICH WREATH DEVILED SPREAD

- 1 can, 4 1/2 oz. size, deviled ham
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 loaf, 8 ounces, Pepperidge Farm Party Pumpkin Bread slices
- 1 cup softened butter

CHICKEN APPLE SPREAD

- 1 can, 4 1/2 oz. size, chicken spread

- 1/4 cup chopped apple
- 1 tablespoon sour cream
- 1 loaf, 8 ounces, Pepperidge Farm Party Rye Bread slices
- 1 cup softened butter

NIPPY PATE SPREAD

- 1 can, 4 1/2 oz. size, liverwurst
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1 loaf, 8 ounces, Pepperidge Farm Party Rye Bread slices
- 1 cup softened butter

Combine first three ingredients in each of three recipes. Spread bread slices with softened butter. Spread half of bread slices with meat spread mixture; close sandwich with remaining slices. Each recipe makes 10 sandwiches. To form wreath, on a large round plate arrange sandwiches around the edge of plate. Decorate wreath with a satin or paper bow. Wreath contains 30 small sandwiches.

Dear Abby

Out of sight, still in mind

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My mother died three years ago after being happily married to my father for 38 years. Four months ago my father married a lovely woman near his age (60ish), and they came from New York to spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Connecticut with my husband, children and me.

It was a wonderful three days. And although it was strange to see my father show affection to a woman other than my mother, I am honestly thrilled that he found someone so lovely.

After they left, I went into the guest room they had occupied and I noticed that my mother's picture had been turned toward the wall! At first I felt anger and resentment. Then I felt thoughtful and guilty for not having realized it was there and taken it down.

In a way I feel hurt and outraged that either my father or his wife would turn my mother's picture to the wall. I can't seem to get it out of my mind. My husband says I am over-reacting and to forget it. But I can't stop thinking about it. Should I mention this to my father or his wife? And if so, what should I say?

DEAR MIXED: Don't mention it. They will probably have a few mixed emotions of their own when they realize that they left the picture turned to the wall.

If I were you, I would find another place for that picture.

DEAR ABBY: In your Thanksgiving message you suggested that the surest cure for post-holiday blues is to "call someone who lives alone and invite him (or her) over for leftovers."

What an insult! Don't forget, Abby,

Not as good
Eating vegetables may not always be quite as good for us as we think, government scientists reported at the American Society of Agronomy meeting last month.

Researchers reported that sometimes the nutrients locked inside the vegetables just cannot get out to benefit us. Ross Welch of the U.S. Plant, Soil and Nutrition Laboratory in Ithaca, N.Y., cited studies of lettuce may contain traces of selenium, cadmium and zinc, either individually or as a trio.

the poor and lonely have their pride! My advice would be: Never invite anyone who lives alone over for leftovers! If you don't want to ask the lonely person for "the real thing," finish your leftovers yourself — or feed them to your dog!

LIVING ALONE IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA.
DEAR LIVING: Sorry, I meant no offense. Most people (myself included) often find leftovers more flavorful than the initial serving.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an only child and his mother is a widow, so when my mother-in-law invited us to pack up our kids (we have three — ages 2, 4 1/2 and 6) and come for Thanksgiving we thought it would be a great idea. We drove 125 miles to get there.

Granny, you should know, is very well-to-do, has traveled all over the world and is a collector. Her home is cluttered with treasures she's collected from all over the world. It looks like a museum!

The whole time she watched the kids like a hawk for fear they'd break something. I spent most of my time policing the kids to be sure they wouldn't touch anything. They aren't deliberately destructive or careless — they are normal, curious children. Needless to say, I was a total wreck and my nerves were shot by the time we went home.

When we left, Granny said, "Promise you will come again next year!" Abby, no way will I bring those kids to her house until they're grown.

What should we say when she invites us again?

DEAR STILL: Thank her, and tell her it's her turn to come to visit you!

DEAR ABBY: How long is "always?"

DISILLUSIONED IN PETERSBURG, VA.

DEAR DISILLUSIONED: Just a little short of "forever."

Willetta Warberg

Start new sauerkraut tradition

Special to The Times-News

No matter how New Year's Day is celebrated, nothing beats following a bit of tradition.

For the table, from East Coast to West Coast and up in the Great Lakes Area, sauerkraut takes attention at that time.

If you haven't before enjoyed a sauerkraut dish on New Year's Day and are so inclined to do so now, we offer you a few ideas for 1983.

SAUERKRAUT WITH FRANKS, ONIONS AND APPLES

1 pound can or jar of sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
1 large onion, peeled and thinly sliced
1 large apple, cored, peeled and sliced
2 beef bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup water
1/4 cup catsup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
6 frankfurters
In a heavy skillet, arrange sauerkraut over bottom. Layer onion and apple slices over top of sauerkraut. Combine dissolved bouillon cubes, catsup and sugar; pour over vegetables. Place frankfurters on top; press into vegetables. Cover; simmer about 45 minutes. (Makes 6 servings.)

SAUERKRAUT AND PORK SOUR CREAM SAUCE

1/2 stick butter or margarine
1 large onion, peeled and thinly sliced
1 1/2 pounds of fresh pork tenderloin, cubed
1 pound can or jar sauerkraut, rinsed and drained pinch salt
1 cup sour cream

Winter driving tip

Packed snow and ice can make Idaho roads rough or bumpy. Bouncing car wheels give unequal friction and braking. Slow down and allow additional time for safer winter driving. This reminder from the Idaho State Police.

1/4 teaspoon allspice
In heavy skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add onion and cook until tender. Remove onion from skillet; set aside. Add pork cubes and brown on all sides. Return onions to skillet with sauerkraut and salt. Cover; simmer about 45 minutes or until meat is thoroughly cooked. Remove skillet from heat; stir in sour cream and allspice. When ready to serve, return to heat and bring just to simmering. Do not overheat because cream will curdle. (Makes 6 servings.)

SAUERKRAUT WITH BEEF POTROAST

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4-5 lb. pot roast
1 cup water
1 small bay leaf
1 small onion, peeled and chopped
2 teaspoons salt
dash pepper
2 tablespoons flour mixed with 3 tablespoons water
1 lb. can or jar sauerkraut, drained and juice reserved
1 apple, peeled, cored and chopped
1/2 cup each water and sauerkraut juice
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
In heavy skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add beef pot roast and brown on both sides. Add 1 cup water, bay leaf, minced onion, salt and pepper; cover and simmer about 3 hours, or until meat is tender. Stir flour and water mixture into meat juices. In separate saucepan, combine sauerkraut, diced apple, 1/2 cup each water and sauerkraut juice and caraway seeds; cover and simmer about 15 minutes. Slice pot roast, serve with gravy and sauerkraut mixture on bed of noodles. (Makes 8 servings.)

SAUERKRAUT SALAD
1 lb. can or jar sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
1 carrot, pared and shredded
1 small green pepper, stemmed, seeded and minced
1 small onion, peeled and minced
3 stalks celery, minced
1 cup chili sauce
1 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons paprika
juice from 1 lemon
In salad bowl, put sauerkraut, shredded carrot, minced green pepper, onion and celery; toss together. In small bowl, combine chili sauce, brown sugar, paprika and lemon juice; pour over sauerkraut mixture; toss thoroughly. (Makes 6 servings.)

THIS WEEK'S BEST MARKET
BUY: Watch for Chinese food sales.

Good-looking and lasting oranges are available now at better prices. Sauerkraut and frankfurters will be good buys. Expect an increase in the price of coffee. Commercial bread is going to cost more.
